WOMAN, MAID MURDERED ON ESTATE IN VIRGINIA

Mrs. Spencer Hisey, Widow of Milwaukee Business Man, and Servant Found Dead at Country Place Near Middleburg.

SKULLS CRUSHED; HOUSE ROBBED

Discharged Employee, Who Is Said to Have Threatened Slain Social Leader, Sought by Police—Other Theories of Crime.

Middleburg, Va., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Spencer Hisey, widow of a wealthy Milwaukee business man, and her maid were found early today dead in the manor house of her estate near here. Their skulls had been crushed. An iron bootjack was found nearby.

Mrs. Hisey's room, where her body lay, was in disorder, police said, indicating she had struggled desperately.

The body of the maid, Mrs. Anne Buckner, 65 years old, of Rockville, Md., was in her room nearby. Both women were clad in sleeping attire.

The bodies were found by Mrs. Hisey's brother, Paul Hisey, when he went from his home nearby to his sister's.

Mrs. Hisey was 42 years old. She was a member of the Middleburg Hunt Club and was prominent in social activities. She had attended a meeting last night at Upperville, several miles away, and police today were looking for the automobile she used. It was missing.

Police also were seeking a Negro woman who she discharged recently. Neighbors said Mrs. Hisey had complained that the Negro had threatened her.

The help of Washington police was enlisted by local authorities and Sgt. Fred Sandberg, fingerprint expert; Lieut. John H. Fowler, ballistics authority, and Detective Sergeant Dennis J. Murphy of the homicide squad were sent to the scene.

A variety of motives, including assault, were advanced by investigators.

Mrs. Hisey was believed to have been reading when attacked. A novel was found near her body.

FORMER NEW YORK SHERIFF BANKED $2,000,000 IN 6 YEARS

Seabury to Put Into Record the Accounts of Charles W. Cullin Who Will Be Called on to Explain.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Samuel Seabury, investigator of the New York city government, was ready today to show that former Sheriff Charles W. Cullin deposited about $2,000,000 in the bank since 1925. This is the largest total of bank deposits disclosed for any individual since Seabury, counsel for a legislative committee, started digging at the financial records of politicians.

CONVICT MURDERS PRISON DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER, 22

Negro Attacks Then Kills Betty Hickock in Her Father's Home Near Penitentiary at Bellefonte, Pa.

Bellefonte, Pa., Jan. 13.—Betty Hickock, 22 years old, daughter of Dr. A. L. Hickock, the chief of the Rockview State Penitentiary psychopathic ward, was stabbed to death today by Fred Collins, 37, a Negro convict from Allegheny County. He killed her after attacking her.

The Negro assaulted Miss Hickock in the bathroom of her home. Then he nearly decapitated her with a butcher knife.

Leaving the house quietly, Collins walked half a mile to the prison and surrendered. Prison officials found the body.

Members of the Hickock family, in the house at the time of the killing, did not know of it until informed by prison attaches.

Collins, who has been in the psychopathic ward for four years, was known to be deficient mentally, but he was considered harmless.

He was a trusty and employed as a guard at the Hickock home. He is serving a 10-to-20-year sentence for second degree murder.

Warden Stanley F. Ashe arrived from Pittsburgh. Officials announced Collins would be taken to Western Penitentiary at Pittsburgh late today.

At an inquest held shortly after Mrs. Hickock's body was found, Collins was held responsible for her murder.

State police augmented the regular prison guard but the situation was described as tranquil.

Dr. Hickock, father of the convicted victim, is understood to be in Harrisburg.

MANY MENTIONED AS SUCCESSOR TO JUSTICE HOLMES

Curtis D. Wilbur, Newton D. Baker, Mitchell, Cardozo and Others Figure in Washington Talk.

COURT EXPRESSES REGRET AT LOSS

Retired Member Says He Treasures Colleagues' Letter "As Adding Gold to the Sunset."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—New names constantly entered the talk today of a successor to Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the Supreme Court, who resigned yesterday because of ill health.

One was that of Federal Judge Curtis Dwight Wilbur, former Secretary of the Navy, brother of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, now on the Circuit bench in California.

There was equally prominent speculation on Attorney-General Mitchell, Democratic member of the Cabinet; Newton D. Baker of Ohio, possible Democratic presidential candidate; Chief Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo of the New York State Court of Appeals, and Federal Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa, a member of the Wickersham Commission.

In Senate cloakroom conversation the names of Senators Walsh of Montana and Bratton of New Mexico, both Democrats, recurred. It was argued that five members of the Supreme Court are from the Northeast and that the President would turn westward for Holmes' successor.

Court's Letter to Holmes.

On the morning of the Supreme Court today, Chief Justice Hughes' correspondence between the court and Justice Holmes on the latter's retirement.

The letter, signed by each member of the court, expressed "our keen sense of loss and our warm affection." It added:

"While we are losing the privilege of daily companionship, the most precious memories of your unfailing kindness and generous nature abide with us, and these memories will ever be one of the choicest traditions of the court."

Justice Holmes replied: "My dear brethren: 'You must let me call you so once more. Your more than kind, your generous, letter touches me to the bottom of my heart. The long and intimate association with men who so command my respect and admiration could not but fix my affection as well. For such little time as may be left for me I shall treasure it as adding gold to the sunset.'"

Inquiry on Wilkerson.

Senate independents are scanning the record of Judge James H. Wilkerson of Chicago before they decide whether to support or oppose his nomination to the Supreme Court.

Not long ago they defeated confirmation of Judge John J. Parker to the Supreme Court and waged a vigorous fight against Charles Evans Hughes, Chief Justice of the United States.

There were rumblings in the Senate of a possible contest against Wilkerson because of his decision 10 years ago granting the injunction asked by Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty in the railway shopmen's strike, but thus far there has been no organized move against the Illinois Judge.

Wilkerson is the judge who sentenced "Scarface" Al Capone and other Chicago gangsters to prison.

TWO ADMIT BOMB PLOT IN KILLING OF THEATER JANITOR

President and Business Agent of Kansas City Sound Projectionists Association Held.

FACTIOUS TROUBLE BETWEEN UNIONS

Ex-Convict Induced to Place Package in Movie Not Knowing It Contained Explosive.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 13.—Ernest J. Lime, 34 years old, president, and E. M. Evans, 40, business agent of the Sound Projectionists' Association, in a signed statement made public by the police today, confessed planning the bombing of the Midland Theater, Monday night, which killed Frank Alexander, Negro janitor, lost his life.

James R. Page, County Prosecutor, said charges would be filed against the union officers under a statute which provides the death penalty for bombings.

Lime and Evans said the bombing was planned in retaliation for previous theater bombings which they charged were directed at their local union by members of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees.

Police quoted Lime as saying they induced Edward Gillespie, 22, former convict, to place the bomb under a seat in the theater balcony, under the impression the package contained liquor.

Lime declared Gillespie did not know that the package contained explosives.

Lime, Evans and Gillespie were arrested yesterday.

Police said Lime told them the bomb contained dynamite and a timing apparatus made from the wheels of a clock and a battery. It was set to explode at 11:30 p. m.

He was quoted as saying he and Evans planned the explosion as a gesture against the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, a rival to the sound projectionists' association.

John Morgan, operator of the sound and projection machine at the Midland, is head of the first union of the International Alliance.

Alexander was killed by the explosion as he walked down a stairway into the lobby at 11:15 o'clock.

The explosion culminated a series of recent attacks against Kansas City theaters. During a strike last fall several International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees were replaced by Association operators.

Police say Gillespie served two terms in the Missouri penitentiary, one for larceny and the other for automobile theft.

BALANCED BUDGET BY END OF FISCAL YEAR 1934 AIM OF TAX INCREASE, MELLON SAYS

PRESENTS TAX PLAN

ADMINISTRATION ALSO WOULD PUT END TO BORROWING

Secretary of Treasury Proposes to House Committee a Virtual Return for Two Years to the 1924 Revenue Act.

PUTS 1933 DEFICIT AT $1,417,000,000

Defends Proposal to Lower Income Exemptions—Favors New Levies Estimated to Yield $920,000,000 in 1933.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A balanced budget at the end of the fiscal year 1934 is the goal of the administration's tax increase program submitted today by Secretary Mellon to the House Ways and Means Committee.

Appearing as the principal witness at the opening of hearings before the Democratic-controlled group that will formulate broader revenue raising legislation, the Secretary of the Treasury under three Republican administrations said:

"We are in the midst of a grave emergency. It is essential to raise additional revenue, not just to cover current expenditures but to maintain unimpaired the credit of the United States Government. This last objective is of paramount importance to every citizen in the land. It is an indispensable step in our progress toward recovery."

Losses Vs. Taxes.

"The losses that will be suffered by every individual and every industry through a continuation of the depression will exceed many times over the amounts to be contributed in additional taxes."

"It is not only the patriotic duty of all to insure the financial stability of the Government in times such as these, but the sacrifice demanded—if we desire to put the justification on a lower plane—is simply warranted by considerations of individual self-interest."

Mellon said the plan he submitted was generally a return to the taxation existing under the 1924 revenue act, twice amended since. He estimated it would return $390,000,000 additional revenue during the current fiscal year and $920,000,000 in the fiscal year 1933 beginning next July 1. It would include a selective sales tax, increases in income and corporation taxes, a super-estate tax, and increases in surtaxes.

Citing the $903,000,000 deficit last year, and a prospective deficit of $2,123,000,000 this year, Mellon estimated there would be a deficit of $1,417,000,000 in 1933 despite the increase in revenue.

Puts Two-Year Limit on Taxes.

Somewhat to the surprise of committee members, the Secretary announced that "the administration is determined, with your co-operation, to arrest this borrowing process on June 30 next," in urging the increased taxes in order to prevent an increase in the public debt. The administration has been borrowing hundreds of millions the last three years. In addition, he recommended that the new taxes be determined at the end of two years, when the budget is balanced in 1934.

"A fundamental thought which I wish to present to you is that current receipts and expenditures of the Government should be brought into balance for the next fiscal year beginning with the coming July 1 as to put an end at that time to any further increases in the public debt," Mellon read from a prepared statement. "This is essential not merely for maintaining unimpaired credit of the Government, but also for reinvigorating the entire credit structure of the country."

Demands Rigid Economy.

"The greater part of the present fiscal year has already elapsed and it is impossible to avoid a large deficit for this year. To cover, for the balance of this fiscal year, all expenditures already authorized and appropriated for, as well as those called for by the administration's program, it is necessary to raise additional revenue."

SECRETARY MELLON.

STOCKS IN STRONG ADVANCE; U. S. BONDS SHOW GAINS

Boyaney Ascribed to Reports That Federal Reserve Has Decided on Credit Expansion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The stock market climbed to new 1932 highs today, accompanied by a strong advance in United States Government bonds.

Wall street's bullishness was attributed largely to reports that the Federal Reserve authorities had decided on a credit expansion program, although the imminence of the conference on railroad wages and Washington's effort toward a balanced budget were other factors influencing the trend.

Shares, climbing steadily all day, closed $1 to $5 or more higher. Liberty bonds and Treasury certificates turned buoyant on the prospects for easier money. There was a marked degree of strength in railroad obligations.

Stocks finished virtually at the top. United States Steel ran up $3 to $44.53, American Telephone $5.25 to $12.25, Santa Fe Railroad $3 to $30, Union Pacific $5 to $33 and American Can $3 to $48.75.

MARRIAGE OF ELSIE JANIS ON NEW YEAR'S EVE REVEALED

Actress Wed Los Angeles Business Man at Tarrytown, N. Y.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Jan. 13.—Elsie Janis, actress, was married New Year's eve to Gilbert Wilson, a Los Angeles business man, in the offices of Mayor Eugene H. Lehman here, it was learned today from Mayor Lehman.

The ceremony was performed by Police Judge Daniel Dwyer.

The marriage license was issued after the closing of the office of the Mount Pleasant Town Clerk by Clerk Edward F. Hennessey.

Mayor Lehman said today he recalled that on the application Miss Janis gave her age as 42 and that Wilson gave his age as 25. Neither had been married before.

Miss Janis for several years has lived at Phillips Manor, which dates back to 1693. She won fame on the stage as a singer and pianist and during the war spent considerable time in France singing for American soldiers.

Reports that she was to marry Wilson were circulated only recently.

BOY SAVED AFTER 10 HOURS ON CANYON'S NARROW LEDGE

Youth, 10, Falls Over California Cliff, But Prevents 150-Foot Plunge.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 13.—Harold Sender, 10 years old, Pasadena, was rescued from a narrow ledge in Eaton Canyon yesterday, 10 hours after he had toppled over a cliff and saved himself from a 150-foot plunge by clinging to rocks and bushes. Sheriff's deputies lowered a rope to the boy and pulled him to safety.

The boy and several others went hiking Monday and, in climbing the canyon, Sender slipped and rolled off a cliff. Although he tore his hands, he finally worked his way to a narrow ledge.

STIMSON'S AIDS CALLED IN SENATE LOANS HEARING

State Department Men to Be Questioned on Its Connection With Foreign Security Issues.

OFFICIAL ACTIVITY IN COLOMBIA CASE

Testimony Given on Intercession With Bankers and as to Mellon Company Oil Concession.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—State Department officials have been requested to appear before the Senate Finance Committee tomorrow to explain the Department's connection with the foreign loans. More than $15,000,000 of South American bonds sold in this country during the last 10 years with the State Department's consent are in default, and others are in jeopardy.

Although the Department officials have repeatedly insisted that the Department's only action was to inform American bankers whether there were political objections to the loans, yesterday's testimony before the committee disclosed that on one occasion the Department actively urged a banking group to make additional advances of $4,000,000 to the Government of Colombia, which the Commerce Department had previously described as a poor risk.

Loan Eventually Made.

The loan eventually was made, after the Colombian Government had renewed a valuable oil concession to the Gulf Refining Co., controlled by the family of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Witnesses denied that the oil grant was a factor in the loan, but there was testimony that Assistant Secretary of State Francis White told the bankers that President Enrique Olaya of Colombia declared he had "met every condition imposed by the Americans, including the granting of the oil concession."

A syndicate composed of the National City Co. and the Bank of Manhattan Trust Co. of New York, the Continental Illinois Trust Co. of Chicago, and the First National Bank of Boston, agreed in 1930 to advance $20,000,000 to Colombia, despite the Commerce Department's earlier warning.

After $16,000,000 had been advanced, the banks became anxious over the condition of Colombia's finances, and the loan was not to be balanced before the remaining $4,000,000 was forwarded. At this juncture the State Department intervened to insist that the loan be completed.

Wirt W. Lancaster, counsel for the National City Co., testified that Secretary Stimson mentioned the matter once or twice, and that Francis White, assistant secretary in charge of Latin-American affairs, spoke about it four times in one week. The bankers remaining reluctant, the Department finally sent an agent to New York to call on them.

Senator Glass Comments.

After yesterday's disclosures, which included Lancaster's testimony that the State Department appeared to be acting as a "commercial agent between the bankers and the Republic of Colombia," the Department hastily issued a statement declaring it had sought only to use "appropriate good offices" in behalf of a foreign government.

Commenting on the Department's admission that it had taken a positive attitude in favor of a loan, Senator Carter Glass (Dem., Virginia), said last night:

"Perhaps they feel conscience-stricken over not telling the truth last week, and are now attempting to give a measure of it in a supplemental statement. Notwithstanding the Department's repeated assertions that it never took any but a negative attitude, here is a concrete case where bankers disapproved of a loan, and the State Department insisted on it. I shall have more to say about this later."

Hearings before the Senate committee were suspended today to allow Senator Johnson time to study a mass of documents obtained under subpoena from the bankers. Assistant Secretary of State White is expected to be the first witness tomorrow.

Coon Dog Rescued From Cave

OLD RED AND MASTER, EDGAR DALE.

RED chased a coon into a cave near New Albany, Ind., then couldn't back out. With picks, shovels, crowbars and dynamite 50 men worked for 113 hours to extricate him. Finally Dale crawled into the 55-foot hole dug to the dog and succeeded in pulling him free. Thereby Dale got the dog, for the owner had promised to give Old Red to the man who rescued him.

DETROIT SLASHES PAY OF SCHOOL TEACHERS

Mayor Urges Strict Economy on Council to Avoid Financial Disaster.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Jan. 13.—A new City Council, which includes two former Mayors and only three re-elected members, took over the municipal government last night and heard a message from Mayor Frank Murphy demanding stringent economy to avoid "financial disaster."

A few hours earlier the Board of Education had contributed to the economy program by voting to reduce by 10 per cent all salaries over $100 a month, with a further 10 per cent cut to be applied to amounts received in excess of $400 annually.

The reductions take the place of 3 per cent cuts voted at the start of the school year. The board, instructed to effect a saving of $3,000,000 this year, has indicated it will ask all employees to work without pay for the last two weeks of the school year.

All of that was in line with the economy program outlined by Mayor Murphy to the council. The old City Council several weeks ago voted to reduce the salaries of all municipal employees from 10 to 17 per cent.

The former Mayors on the new City Council are John C. Lodge and John W. Smith.

ILLINOIS REAPPORTIONMENT MEASURE 'UNCONSTITUTIONAL'

Supreme Court Rules Out Redistricting and Old Congressional Districts Stand.

By the Associated Press. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 13.—Congressional reapportionment enacted by the last General Assembly by the Supreme Court, throwing the April primaries back to the old order, and perpetuating the districts as they have been for the last 30 years.

Reapportionment was killed by a four-to-two opinion of the Court, both Chief Justice Clyde E. Stone of Peoria and Justice Frederick De Young of Chicago dissenting. Four Justices signing the opinion were Frank K. Dunn, Warren W. Duncan, Warren H. Orr and Norman L. Jones.

It was announced that the Court held it is required that the districts once formed shall be as nearly as practicable compact and contiguous and containing as nearly as practicable an equal number of inhabitants.

ILLINOIS HOUSE DEFEATS CHICAGO TAX RELIEF BILL

Senate Measure With Similar Provisions Now Chief Hope for Aid This Session.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 13.—A bill designed to relieve some of the financial difficulties of Chicago and Cook County was defeated in the House of the State Legislature early today, 30 to 58.

The measure, known as the Kelly compromise bill, provided for replacement of the present taxing boards of Cook County with a single board of three members. The plan was identical with one provided for in a bill passed by the State Senate last week. The Senate bill, now on second reading, remains as Cook County's hope for financial relief at the present special session of the General Assembly.

RAILWAY UNIONS TO URGE SPENDING ON MAINTENANCE

This, They Will Tell Executives, Will Stimulate Employment and Revive Industry.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Railway labor chiefs today said they think resumption of necessary maintenance work by the railroads would quicken the return of prosperity.

The labor leaders, making last-minute plans for tomorrow's conference on wage cuts and unemployment relief with heads of the railroads, said they would request the carriers to begin such work at once.

Should the railroads agree, spokesmen said, the wheels of many industries would begin moving and the carriers themselves would benefit through increased freight tonnage.

They announced they would also ask for assurance of steady employment for one year for 2,225,000 workers, asserting this would remove fear of joblessness, restore confidence and thereby release $2,000,000,000 in purchasing power now held back by uncertainty.

The union men indicated during a series of conferences this week that they would be willing to accept the 10 per cent wage cut proposed by the railroads if $250,000,000 obtained in that manner would be used to start maintenance work and relieve unemployment among the rail workers.

The conference tomorrow will be between men representing more than 200 Class A railroads and 21 chairmen of various labor crafts.

Both the railway executives and the union leaders have been authorized to negotiate the problems of wage cuts and unemployment to a conclusion, and the meeting is to be the first of its kind in more than 50 years of railway history.

The labor chiefs have received unlimited power from nearly 2,000,000 workers represented by some 1500 general chairmen.

For 6-Hour Day.

In addition to requesting the railroads to stabilize employment and relieve joblessness, the labor chiefs declared they would ask for other concessions, principally that the carriers agree to the principle of a six-hour day. They contended this would restore work to thousands.

The joint conference is expected to last a week or more. What proposals the railroads will make has not been disclosed.

Senate Passes Land Banks Capital Increase Bill.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—The Senate today passed the House bill to increase the capital of the Federal Land Banks by $125,000,000. The measure now goes to conference for adjustment of differences in the House.

As the committee began its consideration of the charges, Mellon was before the House Ways and Means Committee on the same floor to argue for the adoption of the administration's tax increase program.

Two representatives of Mellon, however, were before the Judiciary Committee to represent him. They are Alexander W. Gregg, former Solicitor of the Treasury Internal Revenue Bureau, and D. D. Shepard, an attorney from Pittsburgh, Mellon's home.

Patman then suggested that Gregg open the testimony. Representative Dyer of Missouri, ranking Republican on the committee, interposed it was Patman's duty to make a prima facie case on his charges and Chairman Sumners ordered Patman to proceed.

When Patman mentioned previous testimony concerning the Aluminum Co. of America, Gregg agreed that Mellon was a minority stockholder in the corporation named by the Texan. Gregg added: "The fact that he owns stock in companies that carry on trade with ships—I concede that for the record now."

APPROVES FARM BOARD INQUIRY

Agriculture Committee Sends Norris Resolution to Senate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—A favorable report of the Norris resolution calling for an investigation into activities of the Farm Board was sent to the Senate today by the Agriculture Committee.

The resolution was amended in committee to provide that the inquiry go into interstate and foreign marketing operations of private organizations or co-operatives or operations set up by the board. It also was changed to direct specific investigation into the organization and operation of the stabilization committee over which the Farm Board holds jurisdiction and the relation between the exchange and operation of the board would be directed.

Mellon Seeks Balanced Budget in 1934

special emergency relief program, will probably require increase in the public debt by $1,500,000,000, less any amounts to be derived in the current year through additional taxation.

"I cannot overemphasize the importance of retrenchment. Without real economy there can be no balanced budget. We are fully justified in calling on the people to make further sacrifice in order to supply their Government with adequate revenue, but we are only justified in making this call if at the same time we eliminate every unnecessary expenditure and see to it that just an enforced rigid economy prevails in every honor in the land, so must it be observed in every operation of the Federal Government."

Income Varies Widely. After a discussion of the increase in expenditures in this and the last fiscal years due to veterans' activities, emergency construction, and the postal service, Mellon said:

"The truth of the matter is that our revenue system rests on a comparatively narrow base and that our tax receipts are susceptible to the widest variations in accordance with variations in business conditions. This is particularly true of current individual income tax collections, the instability of which is further accentuated by the wide variations in gains and losses derived from the sale of so-called capital assets."

Mellon reviewed the decline in big incomes during the past two years, and turned to a defense of his plan to bring in 1,700,000 additional taxpayers by lowering the income tax exemptions.

"It is sometimes suggested that our additional revenue requirements can be covered for the most part by increasing the income tax rates applicable to the larger incomes," the Secretary continued. "The justification for such a proposal is that in periods of emergency the doctrine of ability to pay should be pushed to the limit."

In the Higher Brackets. "Leaving aside the economic question involved in drying up, even temporarily, those liquid resources which should be available for restoring the working capital of industry and commerce and reinforcing our credit machinery, a study of the figures leads to the conclusion that the necessary revenue cannot be derived from this source."

An increase by 100 per cent in surtaxes on the big incomes would net only $200,000,000, Mellon said, although he recommended a 40 per cent surtax on incomes in excess of $500,000 and 37 per cent between $100,000 and $500,000. "The maximum of 20 per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000."

"Many now paying taxes are very definitely in a position to make some contribution to the support of Government," Mellon continued. "They should be asked to do so, taking into consideration ability to pay. This basic concept underlies the entire program which the Treasury Department is submitting for your consideration. It must form a part of any program for taking over the remaining property values of the entire United States."

"I realize, of course, that arguments can be advanced against every increase in rate or additional tax proposed. This is true of all measures looking to an increase in the public revenue. But I trust that on this occasion the attitude of taxpayers will be different from that which, knowing human nature, he would expect under normal circumstances."

Administration Proposals. An outline of the administration's tax increase plan as presented to the committee by Mellon, follows, conforming generally to the suggestions made known in the Secretary's Corporation income taxes to be increased from 12 to 12½ per cent in the current fiscal year and $60,000,000 in 1933.

A super-estate tax to be graduated from 1 per cent on estates of $50,000 to 25 per cent on those in excess of $10,000,000, from which $33,000,000 is expected within the coming 18 months.

Individual income taxes to have normal rates at 2, 4 and 6 per cent, with surtaxes beginning with 1 per cent on incomes over $10,000, graduated up to 37 per cent on those between $100,000 and $200,000 and 40 per cent on those above $500,000, as compared with the present maximum of 30 per cent on incomes in excess of $100,000.

Personal exemptions to be lowered to $1,000 for a single person and to $2,500 for one having dependent children.

pendents, with a credit of $400 for each dependent. This is expected to bring in $1,700,000 additional in individual income taxes, while Federal taxpayers of 3,600,000, who are expected to pay an additional $33,000,000 for the last half of the current fiscal year and $185,000,000 in 1932. Three-fifths of the revenue is estimated to come from incomes in excess of $100,000.

Stamp Taxes. Revival of many of the miscellaneous taxes of 1924, including increase of one-sixth of present rates on tobacco manufactures and products except cigars; an increase of 1 per cent on stock sales; extension of tax on admissions of 10 cents and above; a tax on manufacturers' sales of automobiles, trucks and accessories at 5, 3 and 2½ per cent, respectively; a stamp tax on conveyances of realty of 50 cents for each $500 value in excess of $100; a tax of 5 per cent on manufacturers' sales of radio and phonograph equipment; a stamp tax of 2 cents on each check and draft; tax on telephone, telegraph, radio and mail messages at 1 cent; charges between 14 and 50 cents, and 10 cents on those above.

In the first six months in 1932, about $205,000,000 is expected to be produced from these miscellaneous taxes, while revenue amounting to $514,000,000 is expected for the fiscal year 1933.

Postal rates are increased to cover a deficit in revenues of about $150,000,000, although no specific rate was suggested.

Mills Reads Statement. Mellon stated to read his prepared statement, but changed his mind and requested that Undersecretary Mills be allowed to do the reading. It required 40 minutes.

Representative Crisp of Georgia, ranking Democrat on the committee, opened the examination by asking Mills what specific increases the Treasury recommended in the postal rates.

The Undersecretary suggested that the committee call Postmaster General Brown to explain how the revenues could be increased to meet the prospective $150,000,000 deficit in that department.

During the last 24 months, Mills said, the public debt had been increased by $4,100,000,000, and added:

"The Treasury considers it essential to bring this borrowing process to a halt by June 30. We must do this by attacking Government expenditures as well as by increasing taxes."

He beat the table in front of him with his fist in emphasis, saying economic recovery rested largely on the maintenance of the credit of the Government.

Basis for Estimate. Questioned, Mills divulged that the Treasury had based its estimates on its $320,000,000 tax increase program "on an upward trend of business in 1932."

Pressed by Crisp for further explanation of why the Treasury desired not to issue more long term bonds, Mills said:

"I don't believe that we can have prosperity if we let the public debt increase. There is nothing more we could do to return prosperity than to return Government securities to par."

Asked about the proposed tax on automobiles and trucks, Mills said the automotive industry had experienced "two bad years, but automobiles are wearing out and must be replaced, and when the upturn starts in that industry it is expected to be rapid."

"Why haven't you proposed a gasoline tax?" he was asked. "We considered the gasoline tax, and the only reason we did not suggest it was because of the feeling that the states had looked on it as their own, on which they rely largely," Mills answered. "However, if the states continue to trespass on Federal lands, I feel we can trespass on their field through the gas tax. I have always believed in comity between the states and the Federal Government on taxes."

Mills said a Federal tax of 1 cent a gallon would bring in annually $150,000,000 of revenue.

"No Money in Gift Tax." Asked why the Treasury did not propose a gift tax, Mills said: "We won't get any real money from it."

He said he did not consider it a legitimate method of taxation and that it would "discourage giving, which, admitting the facts, I still think is a good thing."

Bacharach also asked why the Treasury did not recommend luxury taxes on furs and cosmetics. "Minor luxury taxes have always been unsatisfactory because they are difficult to collect and are difficult to make uniform," Mills replied. "An honest merchant will pay his taxes and a dishonest one will not."

Mills estimated that $20,000,000 could be obtained through a tax on cosmetics. Bacharach suggested that a stamp tax be levied on them.

Liquor Taxes Recalled. McCormack suggested a liquor tax would be the easiest to collect and would produce the most money. Mills smiled and said: "Yes, only the Constitution and Congress stand in the way." He added liquor taxes produced $483,000,000 in 1919.

Mills disclosed that the Treasury sent experts to Canada to study the general sales tax there, but declared it would be difficult to put such a tax into effect in this country.

Making the tax increases apply on last year's income would be of no consequence to the individual income taxpayer or the small corporations because they usually paid the previous year's taxes out of present income, he said.

"There is no fundamental injustice in making it retroactive," Mills said. "The most disturbing element to business will be the failure of the Government to put its own house in order."

BOARDS OF SINCLAIR, PRAIRIE OIL FIRMS APPROVE MERGER

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Directors of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, Prairie Oil & Gas Co. and Prairie Pipe Line Co. today announced they had approved a plan for merging the properties as the Consolidated Oil Corporation. Holders of Sinclair and Prairie Oil stocks will receive new stock on a share-for-share basis. Fourteen shares of the corporation's issue will be given for 10 of the Prairie Pipe.

It is expected that H. F. Sinclair will be chairman of the Executive Committee, with W. S. Fitzpatrick as vice chairman. A special meeting of Sinclair stockholders will be held March 1. Shareholders of the Prairie companies will meet about the same date to ratify the plan.

The announcement said it was contemplated the enterprise would begin operations with a capitalization based on property values conforming to present economic conditions.

Estimating the effect of the publicity on Honolulu as a playground for society people, L. R. Thurston, resident of the Honolulu Advertiser, told directors of the Chamber of Commerce that it would take years to counteract the influence of the affair.

The Royal Hawaiian Hotel, leading hostelry, announced it had received cancellations of tourists' reservations and numerous inquiries concerning possible "race riots."

"Concerning possible 'race riots' the threat of business leaders to go past local authorities and ask Washington for relief" was before Gov. Judd today as he assembled for Secretary Wilbur of the Interior Department a report on island conditions.

Gov. Judd said he had not been asked to submit a report, but had informed Secretary Wilbur he would send one. Kenneth Barnes, vice president of the Hawaiian people's association and an acting resident of the chamber, declared Washington authorities would be led to step in if the territorial efforts "become a political situation as a case of pull and haul."

A Chamber of Commerce committee arranged to formally present to Gov. Judd a request for changes in the Honolulu police department and the city and County attorney's office.

Charges before a House subcommittee in Washington that the territorial Judd seemingly gave the "thinly veiled instruction" to the five men tried for the slaying of Mrs. Thomas H. Massey were denied by the prosecutor.

Says Instructions Were Fair. The jury disagreed, six to six, as defendants were reporting that waiting trial when Kahahawai was abducted from the courthouse last Friday and shot to death.

"The statement before the House Naval Subcommittee is absurd," said Griffith Wright, prosecutor in the case. "The instructions were fair to the prosecution, much more than I expected. Circuit Judge E. E. Steadman overruled the defendants' objections with one exception."

No comment was forthcoming from Steadman, who resigned his judgeship recently to become head of a trust company.

Meanwhile Mrs. Fortescue reported virtually confined to bed aboard the receiving ship Albatross at Pearl Harbor, where the defendants are held by naval authorities. Defense attorneys said she was worrying over the condition of husband, who is ill in New York and is almost continually in the hands of the staff, Montgomery Winn, said that he wants the defendants until her husband can be with her.

Enlisted Men in City. Enlisted men from Army Navy posts near Honolulu were invited to come into the city, they had been confined to quarters for three days as a result of action between military and civil men.

American Legion officials formed Maj. Gordon C. Ross.

HAWAIIAN LEADERS URGE LEGISLATIVE SESSION AT ONCE

Conferees to Present Plea to Gov. Judd for Special Session to Take Up Crime Situation.

PROSECUTOR DENIES THAT INSTRUCTIONS TO ASSAULT JURY VIRTUALLY CALLED FOR ACQUITTAL

By the Associated Press. HONOLULU, Jan. 13.—A request for a special session of the Territorial Legislature to consider Honolulu's crime situation and the order which climaxed it has been denied on by legislative conferees. While they prepared to present their recommendation to Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, cancellations of trial reservations for the winter season just starting were urged by Honolulu. Business men recast these were the forerunners of a flood of cancellations which would result from publicity following the killing of Joseph Kahahawai, one of five men accused of slaying the wife of a naval officer.

The Navy would refuse to surrender those accused of killing Kahahawai were set at rest by a noncommittal statement from Washington that they would be turned over to civil courts on demand. Plans are speeded for the murder trial of the accused, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society leader and mother of the attacked woman; her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massey, S. N., and two Navy enlisted men, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Enright. The prosecution already taken depositions of 23 witnesses.

May Reorganize Police. The special legislative session, convened on as urged by conferees the Hawaiian Senate and House yesterday, may result in reorganization of Honolulu's police department. Estimating the effect of the publicity on Honolulu as a playground for society people, L. R. Thurston, resident of the Honolulu Advertiser, told directors of the Chamber of Commerce that it would take years to counteract the influence of the affair.

The accident was the second fatality for Reynolds and his motor cycle. On Oct. 30, last, he fatally injured George Whitney, Negro, 4308 Garfield avenue, in front of 4246 W. Page boulevard. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of criminal carelessness.

EDWARDS TO HEAD MCKINLEY HIGH SCHOOL

Armand R. Miller, formerly principal at Roosevelt, to Assist Him.

A. C. Edwards, who has been principal of McKinley Intermediate school, was promoted to principal of McKinley High School, which will be re-established Feb. 1, by the board of Education last night on recommendation of Superintendent Instruction Gerling.

The intermediate school is to be abandoned and the full high school, which has not been operated for about seven years, restored in the same building, at 2156 Russell street. Many parents in the district had urged Edwards' promotion. Edwards will receive $5500 a year.

Armand R. Miller, professor at Harris Teachers' College, will become assistant principal of McKinley at $5000 a year. He was principal of McKinley when it was closed as a high school and then was principal of the new Roosevelt High, but later asked for a change to the professorship to make his work less strenuous.

Protests against the proposed conversion of the Franklin School, 314 North Nineteenth street, into a vocational school for Negroes were received by the board from the Real Estate Exchange, Boyle Memorial Center, 1920 Franklin avenue; an undertaking firm in the neighborhood, Lewis S. Haslam and Luther Ely Smith, lawyers; P. John Hoener, an architect, and 19 other individuals.

The Real Estate Exchange directors asserted, in a resolution, that the change in the school, formerly used for whites, would depreciate property values in the surrounding district and that new industries in the vicinity needed housing there for white employees. Previously the Neighborhood Association, 1000 North Nineteenth street; a district organization of property owners, and others had objected to the change, while Negro spokesmen upheld it. To board's Instruction Committee, which conducted a public hearing on the subject recently, is awaiting an opinion from Supt. Gerling before making a recommendation. It probably will report next month.

Edward Goedde of 5770A Mc-

Pherson avenue, who is 80 years old and retired, wrote one of the letters received last night. He said he had a sentimental and property interest in the neighborhood, and that he had attended the Franklin School when it was at Eighteenth street and Lucas avenue, before the Civil War.

A resolution by the Public School Patrons' Alliance, asking that school employees be prohibited from parking their automobiles in front of or near schools during school hours, was referred to the Instruction Committee. School officials could not understand the point of this. Many teachers and principals drive to their work.

INSURANCE FRAUD TRIAL WITNESSES TELL ABOUT FIRE

Even Tile Floor Blazed in East St. Louis Business House, Says Assistant Department Chief.

Firemen testified in the Federal Court at East St. Louis yesterday that even the tile floor was blazing in a fire that destroyed the contents of a musical house and automobile agency at 1100 Illinois avenue, East St. Louis, owned by Elijah W. Jamerson, who with Otto F. Leman, insurance adjuster of 2641 Clifton avenue, is on trial charged with using the mails to defraud insurance companies in the burning of Jamerson's store.

Recounting his long experience with fires, Edward Brearton, assistant fire chief, testified: "I never before saw a fire like that one. The walls were not burning, only one spot in the ceiling was burned, but the musical instruments were all on fire and something on the tile floor was burning."

Another witness testified he saw the fire break out from small flames in the center of the display room and "run in a stream just like someone had poured gasoline on the floor. Then a big explosion followed, breaking out all the windows." The fire was at midnight, Jan. 26, 1930.

Canceled Old Policies.
 Representatives of fire insurance and adjustment companies testified that Jamerson, who used the store only as an automobile agency up to December of 1929, had two fire insurance policies on the automobiles and fixtures for $27,000 with one company.

He canceled these two policies by mail, the correspondents testified as evidence to show the use of the mails in the alleged scheme, and during the last week of December of 1929 took out policies totaling $48,000 from 10 different companies, on stock and equipment.

Informing them, the agents testified, that he was going to put in a stock of musical instruments.

Monthly reports sent by mail under the canceled policies showed that Jamerson during the last four months of 1929 valued his stock of automobiles and his equipment at not more than $2113 and not less than $1961.

Claim for $44,817.
 John Keller, manager of the Western Inspection and Adjustment Co., testified that two months after the fire Leman personally presented proofs of loss signed by Jamerson for $44,817. Several weeks later, he said, Jamerson called on him and asked that the loss sheets be returned, saying that there were "mistakes" in them and he wanted to make a new proof of loss. Keller refused to return them. He identified correspondence between his company and Jamerson regarding the proofs of loss.

The indictments contain six counts against each defendant, one charging conspiracy, four dealing with correspondence regarding the policies and proofs of loss, and one charging intent to defraud Fred W. Ziegenhein, owner of the building.

United States District Attorney Glicker, in his opening statement to the jury, said the Government would show that Jamerson sought counsel of Joseph B. McGlynn, city counselor of East St. Louis, to determine if a fire would terminate his 5-year lease on the building at $350 a month. The Government has 73 witnesses and the trial is expected to require a week.

The defense, as indicated by cross-examination, is that the insurance companies instigated the charges against Leman and Jamerson to avoid payment on the policies. Suits brought by Jamerson against the insurance companies are pending in the City Court of East St. Louis.

SLAIN AS ROBBER WHEN ABOUT TO SAIL TO VISIT HIS FAMILY

Man, With Passport to Germany Ready, Is Shot in Fleeing From Chicago Police.

By the Associated Press.
 CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Richard Geiss was shot to death by police as he fled, clutching in his hand $3 he had taken from the girl cashier of an Oak Park cleaning shop. As he threatened her, Miss Helen Cooper pressed an alarm button, summoning the police.

In his room were found two cabigrams and a passport to Germany.

One message dated Jan. 5, from Hockheim, Germany, read: "In vain waited. Dolores' pneumonia bad. Long for you. Come immediately. With love, Gretchen, wife."

His penciled answer, possibly unsigned, was: "Please wire everything about Dolores. Coming on next boat. Hoping everything turns out all right. Richard."

Dolores is their child.

Extra protection against winter COLDS

$1 goes as far as $3 in buying greater protection against colds

PEPSODENT ANTISEPTIC goes 3 times as far because it is 3 times as powerful as other leading mouth antiseptics. It can be diluted with 2 parts of water and still kill germs in less than 10 seconds.

FOR greater protection against sore throat colds and unpleasant breath (Halitosis), remember! there are really only two leading kinds of antiseptics. On one side you have the mouth wash that kills germs only when used full strength. On the other side you have Pepsodent Antiseptic—utterly safe when used full strength, yet powerful enough to kill germs in 10 seconds when diluted with 2 parts of water. Pepsodent Antiseptic is at least three times as powerful as other leading antiseptics.

Hence, it goes three times as far—gives you three times as much for your money—and gives you greater protection against sore throat colds. What a fine way to save money. Instead of paying $3 for three bottles, you pay $1 and make the three bottles yourself. And don't forget, everyone usually adds water before gargling. So when choosing your antiseptic, be sure you choose the one that kills the germs even when mixed with water. Insist on Pepsodent Antiseptic—and be safe! Be safe—and save money!

BAD BREATH (Halitosis)
 The amazing results of Pepsodent Antiseptic in fighting sore throat colds, proves its effectiveness in checking Bad Breath (Halitosis). Pepsodent Antiseptic is over 3 times more powerful in killing germs than other leading mouth antiseptics. Remember, it kills germs even when diluted with water!

FARRELL TO RETIRE AFTER 21 YEARS AS HEAD OF U. S. STEEL

At 69 He Decides That Establishing of Management Under Younger Men Is Advisable.

ALWAYS ADVOCATED HIGH WAGE SCALE

With Company Half a Century Starting When 15 at $2.50 a Week and Working 12 Hours a Day.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—James A. Farrell will retire April 18, after 21 years as president of the United States Steel Corporation.

Announcement of his retirement was made at his home here last night. In a statement he spoke of his age and the "advisability of establishing the management upon a foundation composed of younger men." He will be 69 years old next month.

His retirement will anticipate by nearly a year the date when he would automatically have been placed on the retirement list.

Farrell rose from a millworker to the presidency of the world's largest steel corporation. He became president of the corporation in January, 1911. He consistently has advocated maintenance of a high wage scale.

He will continue a member of the board of directors.

The following statement was written by Farrell:

"On April 1, I shall have been in the service of the United States Steel Corporation and its predecessor companies for upwards of 50 years. For more than 21 years, I have been president of the corporation, prior to which eight years as president of the United States Steel Products Co. I firmly believe that the time has now arrived for my successor to be appointed in order to establish the management upon a more permanent foundation composed of younger men. I have, therefore, requested the board of directors to relieve me of my duties as president and they have consented to do so. My retirement as president will take place at the time of the annual meeting, April 18. I have been asked to remain a member of the board of directors and have assured the board I shall be pleased to do so. I have also given assurance that at all times I will continue to assist in every way the best interests of the corporation.

"My long service has been marked by unusual associations with America's foremost men as well as leaders of industry in foreign lands, which office offered contacts bringing me success and happiness. I will retire with a deep sense of obligation to all my associates for their loyalty, helpfulness and abiding friendship, and with the greatest confidence in the future of the corporation and of the steel industry. The basic principles, the character of our plants and, above all, the quality of the men of our corporation, insure its continuing success."

His Father Sailed Away.
Farrell is the son of a New England clipper shipmaster. When he was only 15 his father sailed away and neither ship nor master ever was heard from again, so the boy stopped at a wire mill one day and got a job grabbing hot rods with pliers. It paid $2.50 a week for 12 hours daily.

Four years later he was in Pittsburgh, boasting at the age of 19, a crew of 1800 workers on a night shift. From then on he steadily forged ahead. In all his 50 years in the steel business he never has been connected with any company except United States Steel or one of its antecedent companies.

C. E. MUSICK NOT RECHOSEN SEWER DISTRICT SUPERVISOR

Charles E. Musick of Ferguson, St. Ferdinand Sewer District supervisor who testified recently that he employed his sister as a stenographer for the district without telling the other supervisors of the relationship, was not reappointed by Circuit Judge Mulloy at the expiration of his term last Saturday.

The district is in process of liquidation as a result of the repeal last spring of the Ralph sewer law, under which it was incorporated. Property owners have been assessed $442,026 to pay preliminary expenses, though no sewers were built.

Musick was appointed to the board Feb. 28, 1930, and became president, succeeding William F. Hecht, who had resigned at the request of Judge Mulloy. Musick's successor, appointed Saturday, is William S. Campbell, an attorney, 7735 Circle drive, Normandy. Judge Mulloy would not discuss his reasons for failing to reappoint Musick.

In depositions taken in a suit to prevent collection of the sewer taxes, Musick testified that he offered friends a 20 per cent reduction of their sewer taxes in return for immediate payment by them of their taxes in full. His proposal was to sell them district tax warrants at 20 per cent discount and redeem them at face value after the taxes were paid.

DECIDES PRESENCE OF STENOGRAPHER VOIDS TRUE BILLS

Judge Miller at Edwardsville Dismisses Embezzlement Charges Against Bank's Ex-Cashier.

Holding that the employment of a stenographer by a grand jury invalidates its indictments, Circuit Judge Miller at Edwardsville today dismissed two charges of embezzlement of a total of $51,746, which had been pending against Roger B. Studebaker, former village treasurer of Madison and former cashier of the Tri-City State Bank of Madison.

Judge Miller's decision is expected to cause interesting developments in Madison County's criminal docket, since a stenographer has been in sessions of the county's grand jury for more than three years and a half, on several occasions with the approval of Judge Miller himself.

The decision does not, however, affect directly the indictments returned recently by a special grand jury after an investigation of the Madison Kennel Club dog track. At that inquiry no stenographer was employed by the grand jury, among those indicted by the special grand jury was State's Attorney Bohm, who presented the state's argument today against dismissal of the Studebaker indictments.

"No Warrant in Law." The Court held, however, that there was no warrant in law for the presence before the grand jury of Mrs. Leverage Theuer, Edwardsville, the stenographer in question. He ruled that the record of the grand jury must be kept in some proper way. The previous method had involved appointment of an accredited Assistant State's Attorney capable of taking shorthand or stenographic notes.

Opposing dismissal of the Studebaker charges, State's Attorney Bohm admitted to the Court that he could find no legal precedents in support of the practice, but pointed out that Cook County and Peoria County grand juries also have been using a stenographer to keep the minutes of their proceedings.

The presence of a stenographer expedited the work of the grand jury, the State's Attorney and the Court, Judge Miller agreed. "Nevertheless, it is not the proper way to proceed."

To Issue New Warrants. Thereupon he dismissed the Studebaker indictments. One secured the embezzlement of $19,775 from the bank and the other embezzlement of $31,771 from the village of Madison. Bohm announced that new warrants would be issued against Studebaker immediately, and that the witnesses in court today would be taken before the grand jury in an effort to obtain new indictments.

Bohm told reporters the Court's decision would make it necessary for him to take all pending criminal cases before the grand jury for new indictments, except for the dog track cases and a few cases in which defendants already have said they would enter pleas of guilty.

In suspending the grand jury Monday Judge Miller declined to administer the usual oath to Mrs. Theuer and at that time expressed the opinion that her presence would invalidate indictments.

PUBLIC HEARING FEB. 9 ON STREET PAVING PLANS

Service Board Seeks to Have Taxpayers Affected Approve Proposals.

A public hearing will be held by the Board of Public Service on Feb. 9 at 10 a. m. on proposals for paving sections of widened National Bridge avenue and an extension, and a section of Vandeventer street, remaining to be widened.

The board hopes most of the affected benefit taxpayers will approve the plans, and thinks the paving work can be carried out next spring.

One section involved is National Bridge, between Goodfellow avenue and the western city limits, where the board proposes to lay concrete paving at an estimated cost of $65,000. As this will be a 100-foot street, the city will pay 40 per cent of the cost with bond funds and charge the remainder to adjoining property owners.

Another section is National Bridge, between Garrison avenue and Twenty-fifth street, and Palm street, between Twenty-fifth and North Florissant avenue, connecting with the future North Twelfth boulevard. Here 60 per cent will be paid with bond money because irregular intersections make the expensive heavy. Cost estimates are $100,000, if ordinary asphalt is used, or $125,000, if Warrenton, a patented asphaltic material, is used.

Proposals for paving widened National Bridge, between Garrison and Goodfellow, are deferred because the Public Service Co. has an application pending with the State Public Service Commission to abandon its tracks in part of this district, between Grand boulevard and Kingshighway.

The section of Vandeventer the board desires to pave extends from Chouteau avenue to Hunt avenue, near Tower Grove Station. Smooth granite paving is proposed at an estimated cost of $34,350, with 25 per cent paid by bond money, this being an 80-foot street.

PLANE CARRYING OXYGEN BREATHING DEVICE STOPS HERE

Flyers Refuel on Way From New York to Tucson, Ariz.

An airplane carrying an oxygen breathing chamber for a patient at Tucson, Ariz., stopped to refuel at Curtiss-Stenberg Airport, on the East Side, at noon today.

The plane left New York yesterday, stopping last night at Columbus, O. The pilots, Stuart Reis and Chester Pickup, reported strong headwinds on the flight this morning. They arrived here at 11:55, and departed 25 minutes later for Springfield, Mo., the next refueling point. Refueling stops also are planned at Tulsa, Ok., and Dallas and El Paso, Tex. The oxygen chamber is for Miss Alice Hilliard, step-daughter of Robert Bingham, publisher of the Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal, who is ill with pneumonia at Tucson. Word received today was that she had rallied, and probably would recover without resort being made to the oxygen apparatus.

Personal daintiness! The subject of whispered comment, veiled hints. Lose it and you lose all chance of social acceptance.

Fresh lingerie each day is absolutely essential to daintiness. All day long underthings absorb perspiration. A daily change is even more important than a daily bath. And it's so easy to wear fresh lingerie every day. For Lux removes every trace of perspiration, yet protects colors and fabrics. And it takes four minutes or less. Wash underthings and stockings in Lux diamonds, after each wearing.

- 1 Wash this 4-minute way: 1 tablespoon of Lux diamonds does 1 day's undies. Dip up and down, rinse twice, squeeze in bath towel, shake out. Then they're fresh and sweet!
- 2 Wash after each wearing, for perspiration acids left in silk fade colors and rot threads. With Lux it takes only a few minutes—less time than it takes to wash your face and hands.
- 3 Never rub dairy lingerie with cake soap. Rubbing tends to streak colors and weaken fabrics. Tests show Lux removes perspiration acids completely—yet leaves colors sparkling, like new. Anything safe in water alone is just as safe in Lux.

HANGED FOR MURDER OF TURK IN IRELAND

Eddie Cullens, Naturalized U. S. Citizen, Goes to Death in Belfast.

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Jan. 13.—Eddie Cullens, young naturalized United States citizen, was hanged at 8 a. m. today for the murder of Achmet Musa, a Turk. Musa, promoter and companion of Zero Agba, advertised as the oldest man in the world, was found slain in a field near Carrickfergus and Cullen was arrested and convicted of the crime Dec. 10. Friends in the United States made strenuous efforts to get a modification of the sentence.

The case was taken to an appeal court New Year's day, but the appeal was rejected. The original sentence was to hang. The appeal to go to the House of Lords. The Ulster Cabinet considered the case, and the Governor, the Duke of Abercorn, said he saw no reason why a reprieve should be granted. As late as last night the Cabinet again considered an appeal by the Jewish community but decided a reprieve was not warranted.

During his last day or two Cullen was attended by Rabbi Schacter. He was in good spirits, calm, and smoked incessantly. He regaled warders at the jail with stories of Hollywood and New York, where he once worked as a movie projector.

Of the 5566 cases "cleaned up," 4073 were recoveries of stolen automobiles.

FEDERAL OVER-ASSESSMENTS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—During the calendar year 1930 the Government overassessed large income and estate taxpayers at the rate of $8,125,304 a month. This was reported to the House yesterday by the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which said that during the year there were 125 over-assessment cases exceeding $75,000 each and aggregating $97,502,653.

It included a refund and credit to the United States Steel Corporation of $21,000,000 and an allowance to the Payne Whitney estate of $16,000,000. "If these two cases are eliminated the trend of assessments would be downward," the committee reported. "Taken as a whole, the final determination of the Commissioner in these cases have been carefully and accurately made and are not open to criticism."

UNION ELECTRIC HEAT RATE PLAN REJECTED

State Board Bars Schedule Requiring Users to Buy Power From It Also.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 12.—The State Public Service Commission today disapproved and rejected a proposed rate schedule for steam heating service filed last Sept. 3 by Union Electric Light & Power Co. of St. Louis, which would have enabled the Union company to require the use of its electric service as a condition to obtaining its steam service.

"The language of the proposed schedule," the commission said, "would have authorized the Union Co. to refuse to render service for which it had facilities to prospective customers and thus discriminate in its service in favor of the class of persons who take that service. In the opinion of this commission such discrimination is unreasonable and improper. It is a violation of the fundamental conception of the duty of a public utility in the use of property clothed with a public interest and in the exercise of rights granted by a municipality. It is further violative of several provisions of the Public Service Commission act."

The proposed schedule made no changes in rates, but only in service rules. It was brought out in hearings that Union Electric wished authority to refuse heating service to concerns buying electricity from its only electric competitor in St. Louis, the Laclede Power & Light Co., an affiliate of Laclede Gas Light Co.

It was admitted by Union Electric that it was giving steam heating service as a public utility, but the company contended that inasmuch as the steam was to a considerable extent a by-product of its electric service it should not be required to furnish steam to customers not using its electric service, although its facilities might be adequate for doing so.

The commission refused to hear complaints of customers and confined the testimony to the point of law as to whether such discrimination was permissible. The commission said specifically that the proposed schedule violated a section of the law prohibiting undue and unreasonable privileges to any customer.

The steam heating service is rendered only in the central downtown section.

G LEAGUE CLUBS MAY ALL HAVE HOLDOUTS

Art Shires Signs $11,000 Contract With Boston Club

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 13.—The Associated Press. Art Shires, announced yesterday he had signed a one-year contract for $11,000 to play with the Boston Braves.

Shires said he was well pleased with the figure since it was about $3000 more than he received last summer at Milwaukee. He led the American Association in batting in 1931.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—The Associated Press. The over-magnate wrangle over major league salary reductions already is going to a boil and indications that not one of the 16 clubs will escape unscathed.

With only a few returns in, four of the New York Giants, New York Yankees, Brooklyn Dodgers and Cincinnati Reds already have some embroiled, or expect to, in disputes with star performers.

Giants Hard Hit. The Giants have been hardest hit. Already Bill Terry, Fred Cramer and Mel Ott have signed contracts. The team expects trouble from Ruth, who says he is ready for accepting less than $50,000 a year. As for the Dodgers, irrepressible Floyd (Babe) Herman already has come to the club with a statement that may or may not be construed as an announcement of holdout intentions. The Reds are locked in an argument with Charles (Red) Lucas, one of the pitching staff, who has asked to take a $2500 cut. Terry flatly has refused to accept a 40 per cent reduction in salary and announces he will not take part at all unless a general reduction is made all over the National League. The Giants' position so far has been that the big first baseman can take it or leave it. They won't be traded or sold.

At his home in New Orleans, yesterday he had returned a contract calling for a stiff slash in salary. The homerun hitting outfielder said the cut was not 40 per cent but "much bigger than I expected." He hopes for adjustment. Fred Fitzsimmons, the Giants' right-handed pitcher, today wired New York Sun from Arcadia, Cal. he was not satisfied with the contract offered him for 1932. Fitzsimmons did not indicate in a telegram whether his salary slashed.

"Not Interested." Out at Glendale, Cal. Herman said he was not interested in salary. The Dodger outfielder drew $30,000 for hitting .313 last year and if the 1932 papers call for anything less he says he'll send them back. In view of the Brooklyn club's announced intention of slashing salaries, Herman's statement seems to amount to a holdout in advance.

Unless Knockdowns. HIS great little fighting machine Henry Tuttle, with the ring moniker "King Tut," has had many men on the floor in his fights. And he has visited the canvas himself. Although his face and ears are not battle-scarred and his eyes are still bright and twinkling, he has blocked a few swings with every feature of his face and almost every portion of his body except his shoulder blades.

In all reason he ought to know that a tough game fighting like that and the pain and anguish, fighter must endure during a crushing battle. But apparently he doesn't. In fact, he says he does not recall suffering any pain from any blow, although it has been told that a sock straight to the solar plexus leaves a victim gasping and helpless from semi-paralysis of the nerves.

"Search me," he said, who asked what sort of a punch hit him most. "I don't feel any pain from blows to the head. On a while a cut on the forehead makes your head ring."

"No, a punch on the nose is anything. Punches to the chest or upper part of the body hurt for you and sometimes do you; but your head clears pretty quickly. I don't remember any particular pain. In fact,

BROWNIERS WILL GO TO CHICAGO TO START A. L. RACE APRIL 12

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Once more the honor of opening the major league baseball season will fall to the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators.

These American League clubs will start major league baseball of 1932 on April 12, a day in advance of the official opening so that President Hoover can throw out the first ball.

On April 12, the official opening date, the schedules will be:
National League: Philadelphia at New York; Boston at Brooklyn; Chicago at Cincinnati; Pittsburgh at St. Louis.

American League: Washington at Boston; New York at Philadelphia; St. Louis at Chicago; Cleveland at Detroit.

The complete schedules will be announced Feb. 2 and 3, Presidents Hoover and Hiram, of the National and American Leagues, respectively, announced after a conference completed yesterday.

Oilers Ask the Sugar Creaks to Get A. A. U. Cards

An obstacle appeared in the path of the Sugar Creek basketball team today, with the announcement by W. L. Miller, president of the Missouri Valley Basketball Association, with which the local team is affiliated, that he will not allow the Tulsa Diamond Oilers to take the court at St. Louis University Gymnasium against the Sugar Creaks next Sunday night unless the Sugar Creaks sign every member of the local quint to Amateur Athletic Union cards.

"The Diamond Oilers were semi-finalists in the 1930-31 National A. A. U. tournament," Miller explained during a hasty visit here to iron out this detail. "I am confident the Tulsa club, of which I am manager, is the strongest amateur basketball quint in the country, and with this point in view, our team will bid for the national title at the 1931-32 tournament at Kansas City. Therefore, we will not jeopardize our amateur standing by playing against the St. Louis club until it is registered."

Manager William O. De Witt of the Sugar Creaks went into conference with the Tulsa manager and stated after the meeting that he would have no discussion with the St. Louis players when they report for practice tonight.

No Longer Using Pros.
"The Sugar Creaks do not wish to evade the Amateur Athletic Union ruling," De Witt said, "but it was my understanding that as long as we did not use professionals or play against professionals, we would not jeopardize the standing of rival A. A. U. teams or our own players."

Under a recent A. A. U. ruling it was made possible for teams playing in a closed organization to compete among themselves without A. A. U. registration.

Registration, however, is necessary for all individuals and teams when competing in open A. A. U. competition. Under this ruling no registration would be required of the Missouri Valley Association teams until they enter the national or sectional A. A. U. championships.

Ted Sauselle, one of the Sugar Creak players who had been considered a "pro" because of his connection with professional baseball and football teams, no longer is playing with the Sugar Creaks.

JULE SCHESKE SET TENPIN RECORD IN ARWAY LEAGUE

A new single game record was established in the Arway Scratch League last night by the Jules Scheske Insurers who turned in a count of 1126. The Scheskes totaled 519 and won three games from the Pevels and remained two games back of the leading Charlottes, who took three games from the South Sides. The Silver Seals advanced to third place by winning two games from the Dave Browns, while the Gateways were dropping two to the Waydaes.

The Scheskes turned in games of 1046, 958 and 1126 to amass their 3330 total. "Buss" Wilson scored 637, Glen Glubb 638, Jim Murray 606 and H. Weism. View. Latani rolled an even 600 to top the Pevels.

The Charlottes rolled 3097 with games of 1032, 1055 and 1010, to win from the South Sides. Hal Readmon 644, H. Fredrick 633, Bud Schmitt 618 and Fred Taff were the Charlotte leaders.

F. Dahmer of the Waydaes, won high single with 253 but totaled only 623. Erv Brunsumann topped the Gateways with 637, which included a 257 game. Sperry of the Dave Browns scored the only other 600, getting 613.

Hockey Meeting

There will be a meeting of those interested in the formation of an amateur ice hockey league at the Arena tonight at 8 o'clock. Joe Furnham, chairman of the hockey committee of the Western A. A. U., has called the gathering and will preside. The league, if formed, will operate under the A. A. U.

The Memphis Blues.

S SHAKESPEARE says, regarding ball.

Bill Terry is a case in point. As Stoneham told the well-known "Joint".

To him was such a bitter pill. He scarcely could believe it.

And so the contract being spurned To Mr. Stoneham was returned With Bill's acceptance missing. The owner's action gives him pause. And so instead of great applause The act he's loudly hissing.

Why Not?
In the disposition of that $2,000,000,000 finance bill passed by the Senate they seem to have taken care of nearly every enterprise except the second division baseball clubs.

However, we trust that when the bill reaches Congress this matter will be taken care of. The limit to the borrowing power of clubs in need of financial aid from the Government might graduate from the cellar up to the fourth story.

In other words the big idea is to let the tallenders in on the ground floor.

"Bottled 'Sunlight' To Be New Food" If Cows Take to Diet.
If it is as potent as bottled moonshine it ought to make the cow huddle the sun and the moon in two jumps.

The high jump record established by Mother Goose's cow has stood for a long time but if this bottled sunshine is what it is cracked up to be there will be some track records broken on the Milky Way.

In other words the little dog that got such a kick out of the old performance "ain't seen nothin' yet. And the dish that swarmed with the spoon will be coming back for the knife and fork.

Going Over!
HEY diddle, diddle, the cat and the fiddle,
The cow jumped over the moon.
But with a big fat piggy back,
She will pull off a flight.
Clear over the sun pretty soon.

"Japan Seen as Umpires' Paradise"
COULD anybody blame the ump for liking Japanese?
Upon the ump they do not jump As long as there's Chinese.

The Japs are coming forward in baseball by leaps and bounds but their lenient attitude towards the umpire shows that they are still lacking in finer points of the game.

They may stretch in the seventh inning and eat peanuts and hot dogs and drink soda pop but are still woefully lacking in technique. They don't know how to dispose of the empty bottles to the best advantage.

While the players are getting along fairly well the grandstand managers are far from being up to the mark.

Flyers Beat Duluth, 3-2, For 7th Straight Victory

The Flyers' center man, took the puck from Scott near center ice, skated over the Duluth blue line and sent a shot at Turner which blasted the goalie's legs apart and went into the webbing.

The cheering of the crowd, had not died away, however, when Du-luth knotted the count again. They sent five men after a score and got it because Thostenson worked his way behind the St. Louis defense, took the puck after a shot by Anderson passed through a Flyers' skater, and backhanded the puck into the net.

The Flyers returned to the attack immediately after the start of the third period and after nine minutes Chubby Scott scored what proved to be the winning goal. There was a face-off just over the Duluth blue line and on the Hornets' right wing, Scott took the puck from McPherson and shot it at Turner, then followed in and took the tie on the rebound. He found Turner out of position and flipped the rubber into the net.

After that there were many anxious moments for the St. Louis fans for the Hornets swarmed down the ice in an effort to score, but the Flyers managed to last. Williams was chased for a penalty and left, it up to Jackson, St. John, Croasay and Mulligan to stop Duluth for the remainder of the game.

St. Louis, in third place, has won nine and lost only six games, the lowest total of defeats for the clubs. The Kansas City and Chicago, the one-two clubs, both have suffered seven defeats.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in the cardinal principles that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrongs, whether by predatory plutocracy, or predatory poverty.

Glendy B. Arnold Scores Hoover Bill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I wish to commend your editorial attacking the Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill, just passed by the United States Senate appropriating $2,000,000,000 to be used to pay interest to bondholders of the railroads and to reimburse depositors of "busted" banks. This legislation incites the use of harsh language properly to characterize it. A discussion of offensively ugly truths calls for the use of plain language. That this bill, like the Farm Board Act and Farm Loan Act, constitutes legalized robbery, we may assume upon the authority of the Supreme Court of the United States. In speaking of this class of legislation it once said:

To lay with one hand, the power of the Government on the property of the citizen and, with the other, to bestow it upon favored individuals, to add private enterprises, and to build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done in the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

To make this obviously true utterance plain, the court said:

No court, for instance, would hesitate to declare void a statute which should exact that the homestead now owned by A should no longer be his, but should henceforth be the property of B (17 U. S. 623).

When a bank lends money, it is the borrower's property; when the Government lends its money to pay interest to the bondholders of railroads, drainage and irrigation districts, and farmers who own improved lands, and to be used in their private business, for private profit, it is just the same, in principle, as enacting that your homestead shall no longer be yours, but shall henceforth be my property. In the language of the Supreme Court, that is legalized robbery.

This Reconstruction Finance Corporation bill is a foolish, vicious, un-American and unconstitutional exercise of the taxing power. In the case just referred to, the court said that a popular government, which recognizes no limits on its power to appropriate the public funds, "is after all, but a despotism. It is true it is a despotism of the many, of the majority, if you choose to call it so, but it is none the less a despotism."

To take the taxes of millions of needy taxpayers, many of whom are compelled to borrow money to pay them, and use them to pay interest to the fortunate and, in hosts of instances, opulent holders of railroad bonds, or to reimburse the losses of depositors in insolvent banks, to my way of thinking, is as base and immoral as the act of a highwayman. Of course, the money thus appropriated will be hoarded or used by the beneficiaries in their private business to earn a private profit, and in innumerable instances to pay luxuries and for pleasure. It is an unthinkable act of governmental immorality, and I do not believe the people will stand for it when they realize its import.

Such legislation will drive men not only to hoard their savings, but to resort to every deception to avoid paying taxes to a dishonest Government. It will defeat its obvious purpose by destroying instead of creating public confidence.

There is no distressful financial emergency imaginable which can justify such dishonest measures as the Farm Board and Farm Loan laws, and this bill. If we are facing real conditions than now prevail, we shall have to endure them. There is no escape. Until the black days of the Hoover administration, it had never been the business of our Government to finance private industry out of the public treasury. If we are going into that business, then everywhere with an ounce of brains will agree that common honesty and fair dealing demand that all in need of financial help be treated alike.

When the taxpayers are given clearly to understand that their Government is taking money wrong from them by taxation and bestowing it upon others to be used to earn a private profit, they will find some device way to circumvent that gross wrong. God and all decent men will sanction a lie told to a highway robber by his victim to conceal his goods. If this kind of legislation is to become the fixed policy of the Government in the future, we are headed for a general breakdown.

Keep up the good fight!

GLENDY B. ARNOLD.

Blames Press for Country's Plight.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The false prophets were a curse to ancient Judea. In modern times, the great curse and menace to this country is the reactionary, dishonest and cowardly public press, which is serving monopoly and special privilege and misleading and betraying the cause of the people. I should hold the traitorous and corrupted public press largely responsible for the country's plight. If we had many more newspapers as honest and courageous and loyal to the cause of the people as the Post-Dispatch, this country would be in much better condition today.

RESIGNATION OF JUSTICE HOLMES.

Carrying on to his ninety-first year, the venerable Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes has resigned from the United States Supreme Bench. "The time has come, and I bow to the inevitable," says the Justice in his letter of resignation to Mr. Hoover.

In association with Justice Brandeis, 15 years his junior, Justice Holmes has been the hope of democracy in the United States through one of the most trying periods in the history of the republic. The American people cannot see the senior member of that sterling twin retire without a deep sense of loss. In becoming the outstanding liberal interpreter of the American Constitution, Justice Holmes, whose father was the poet, Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, furnished an unusual instance of co-greatness in father and son. He rose rapidly in the law, and was an eminent jurist in his State before he went to the supreme bench. Singularly, both Justice Holmes and Justice Brandeis came from Massachusetts.

The retiring Justice had already won the greatest reward possible for one of his devotion to the spirit in which the United States was born. Appointed to the supreme bench in 1902, his was for years a voice lost in the wilderness of what he conceived to be our apostasy to the ideal that human rights take precedence over all material fortune and all time serving. In 1916 he was joined on the Supreme bench by Justice Brandeis. Coming from two widely separated schools of thought, the one a student of jurisprudence, and the other an apostle of social justice, they stood together from the outset.

In the 15 years in which they have been together on the bench, only rarely have they disagreed upon any matter, and virtually never when the issue of democracy was fairly joined. Only the hardest proponents of what is sometimes called the liberal faith could either have stood out against the majority or stood up against the widespread criticism leveled at them through those eventful years; but neither of the men from Massachusetts has ever flinched. Possibly there abode in them, by some strange alchemy of environment and training, the spirit of the people who first landed at Plymouth Rock.

At any rate, a time came when other friends of democracy went to the supreme bench to assert their belief that Justices Holmes and Brandeis, and oftentimes Justice Clarke, before he resigned to lose himself in his quest of a phantom League of Nations, were right. Four Presidents had participated over more than a quarter of a century in the selection of what at last became a majority opinion with Justices Holmes and Brandeis leading the way. Mr. Roosevelt had appointed Justice Holmes. Mr. Wilson had appointed Justice Brandeis. Mr. Coolidge had appointed Justice Hughes and Justice Roberts. In his letter accepting the resignation of Justice Holmes, Mr. Hoover says: "I know of no American retiring from public service with such a sense of affection and devotion of the whole people."

Despite every contradiction, it is hard not to have faith in the inherent soundness of American democracy when such a battle as Justice Holmes has fought can be won and his President can so acclaim him.

NOT SO CRAZY.

Irving Mischner, an exporter, returns to New York from the wilds of South America with strange tales and tokens of his voyage. He claims to be the first white man to make the acquaintance of the Huaito Indians, whom he represents as outlandish savages with painted cheeks and feathers in their ears. Mischner found them very friendly until he suggested they pick for trade one banana for every one they eat. Then the entente cordiale was broken, the Indians showed their teeth and Mischner was invited to leave immediately, if not sooner.

The only thing about the story to which we take exception is Mischner's imputation that, because of their refusal to establish a trading post for him, the Huaitos are somewhat crazy. As a matter of fact, those natives are merely avoiding the fate of the Congo ivory-gatherers, the Liberian rubber workers, the Brazilian coffee serfs and the American Indians who sold Manhattan Island for $24 worth of beads and a bottle of whiskey.

INSURANCE COMPANIES AND FEDERAL CREDIT.

The insurance companies make the point that, while they have been linked with the railroads and savings banks in the argument for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, they are not really in the same category.

There is a degree to which this is true, so far as the railroads are concerned, but it is not altogether true of the savings banks. An impression that the case was about the same with the railroads, the savings banks and the insurance companies arose from statements by insurance men before the Senate Banking and Currency Committee. Frederick H. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., testified that at the end of 1931 the life insurance companies of the country would have 16 per cent of their assets in railroad bonds; that in 1906, 34.8 per cent of their assets had been in railroad bonds. Summarizing the assets of life insurance companies, Mr. Ecker said that as of Dec. 31, 1931, the life insurance companies would have 28.4 per cent of their assets in first mortgages on city real estate; 10 per cent in farm mortgages, 8.6 per cent in domestic and foreign government bonds, 16 per cent in railroad bonds, 10 per cent in utility bonds and stocks, 15.9 per cent out on policy loans and premium notes and 2.9 per cent in real estate. These items total 91.7 per cent. The remaining 8.3 was understood to consist chiefly of cash. Mr. Ecker said the loans to policy holders had greatly increased in 1931, constituting 32 per cent of all the money available for investment by the companies. Formerly, policy loans had accounted for only 15 per cent of the funds available for investment.

In urging passage of the credit bill, Mr. Ecker was joined by Edward D. Duffield, president of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., who said he spoke for 50,000,000 life insurance policy holders and 13,000,000 savings bank depositors. Mr. Duffield also appeared as chairman of the Emergency Committee on Railroad Investments of life insurance companies and mutual savings banks. He said that 23 of the largest companies, on last July 13, had $2,438,521,528 worth of railroad bonds, and that 172 mutual savings banks represented by his committee had $512,996,213 worth, a total of $2,951,517,741. He said the assets of all the life insurance companies amounted to $18,900,000,000, and the assets of savings banks $10,585,000,000. On this basis, about 13 per cent of the life insurance companies' assets were in railroad bonds. According to Mr. Duffield, the Metropolitan Life, with $709,345,000, topped the list. The other large holders were the Prudential, $599,000,000; New York Life, $399,000,000;

Mutual Life, $358,000,000; Mutual Benefit, $108,623,839; Aetna, $83,579,700; Travelers, $80,808,000; John Hancock, $61,803,450; Penn Mutual, $54,238,000, and New England Mutual, $53,003,865.

FOREIGN LOANS AND THE GOVERNMENT.

What role, if any, should the Government play with regard to the supervision of foreign loans? This question is brought sharply to the fore by the Senate investigation of international banking and by the number of foreign bonds in default. A survey made by the Foreign Policy Association shows that the aggregate par value of funded obligations sold on behalf of governments, states, provinces and municipalities, and the loans guaranteed by governments on which interest payments are in default, totals more than two and a half billion dollars. Interest in arrears amounts to more than a billion dollars. The huge indebtedness of Czarist Russia is excluded from the calculation.

Prior to the war, before the United States became the leading creditor nation, the Government's relation to foreign loans was not in issue. But in 1921, when foreign loans, privately made, had a bearing on the advances made by the Government to the Allies, President Harding informed the bankers that the administration wished to be informed about negotiations for new foreign loans, in order that it might express an opinion about them. There was no authority in law for this move, but the bankers agreed to the proposal, and an announcement to that effect was made in March, 1922.

The policy was followed by Mr. Harding's successors, and has been the subject of a good deal of controversy and criticism. There are those, like Senator Glass, who attack it because the State Department has no more authority to pass on loans than to place an embargo on an export commodity. There are others who believe the Government should be given power of life and death over foreign loans. In reply to Senator Glass' point, the State Department says its verdict upon proposed loans is only advisory, in the interest of the investing public, and it justifies its intervention, as foreign loans affect foreign relations.

Former Secretary of State Kellogg defined the Government policy as a desire to state whether or not proposed loans were in the public interest, "such as loans for armaments, loans to countries not making debt settlements with the United States, or loans for monopolistic purposes." Acting under that definition, the State Department has discouraged loans to Portugal for armament purposes, to France and Italy before they had ratified their debt settlements, and to the potato monopoly of Germany, the coffee syndicate of Brazil and the Chilean nitrate combine.

It appears, however, that the State Department has noddled on many occasions and that bad loans have been made with its "negative approval," despite warnings from other official sources. S. Parker Gilbert said in 1926 that he "was constantly amazed at the recklessness of American bankers" in selling German bonds to the American public, on the basis of a German construction of the Treaty of Versailles not accepted by the Allies. The ill-fated Peruvian loan was approved and made over the vehement protest of Oliver C. Townsend, Department of Commerce representative at Lima, who was rebuked for his pains by his superiors.

Several suggestions have been made about the future course of the Government. One is that it follow the example of European countries and acquire legal authority to pass on proposed loans. Another is that there should be created an organization similar to the Corporation of Foreign Bondholders of Great Britain, a purely unofficial body whose work on behalf of bondholders has been very effective. In any case, it is clear that we need some kind of new machinery, both to warn investors before purchase and to safeguard their interests afterward. As a creditor nation, we must put money to work among debtor nations. It is not the practice that is wrong, but the sometimes utterly unconscionable way in which we go about it.

MEETING THERON McCAMPBELL.

Unless we miss our guess, a man of the people is pushing to the fore in New Jersey. He is Assemblyman-elect Theron McCampbell, who describes himself as a "Democrat of Jeffersonian simplicity." And simplicity it is. On his election, politicians and others began to address him as "Hon. Theron McCampbell." Forthwith he served notice to omit the "Hon." Then he protested against being handed his salary of $500 as an Assemblyman in the customary lump sum. By the week is the way Theron McCampbell wants his—as he leaves for home on Saturday afternoon, no doubt. Now comes the stand that will set the bonfires blazing under the heather-tinted sky of old Scotland's hills. Theron McCampbell refuses to plunk down $100 for a stove pipe hat and a frock coat to attend the Governor's inauguration! What he wrote to the bigwigs at the State Capitol was not revealed, but he could have done far worse than to quote the immortal words of his compatriot:

What though on hamely fare we dine,

Wear hoddgen gray, and a' that;

Gie fools their silks, and knaves their wine,

A man's a man for a' that.

WIDENING HANLEY ROAD.

Property owners in University City, who are objecting to a plan of that progressive suburban municipality for the widening of Hanley road, should consider the history of street widenings in St. Louis, with a view to changing their minds.

When St. Louis sought to widen Grand boulevard years ago, before that thoroughfare was developed, there was opposition to the expense of a few thousand dollars. Now, just to widen a section of the street will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars. In the midtown area, where widening is needed most, the cost is prohibitive. Elsewhere the city is spending millions to correct the mistakes and lack of foresight of the past.

The Hanley road objectors should look ahead to the development of the community. The need may not be great for widening now, but this is the time to establish the new lines and prevent expensive structures from getting in the way. University City has specified that the actual widening would not occur for at least 10 years. Hence the expense of paving the extra space is to be postponed. It will be a year or more before the benefit assessments can come due, and it is likely that arrangements will be made for paying them by installments.

Hanley road is one of the few principal cross-town arteries which can be established in University City. The fact that widths of this road will vary in other suburbs, at first, should not deter the scheme, for a start must be made somewhere.

Crime News and the Press

Theory that press overplays crime news is derided by writer, who says crime is a major national problem, deserving prominent attention; such stories do not corrupt readers, but stimulate them to demand reforms; press often inspires capture and punishment of offenders; suppressing crime news would not improve situation.

Ernest A. Dewey of the Hutchinson (Kan.) News and Herald, in the Commonwealth.

THERE are a tremendous number of sane and intelligent people who feel that the news of crime constitutes a definitely objectionable feature of the newspaper of today. They feel that crime news is not an indispensable part of the news, and properly should occupy a minimum of news space. They feel that it exerts an unduly exciting influence upon the imagination of youth and certain mental types; that the playing up of crime news encourages crime; that the American press glorifies the American criminal; and, finally, that crime news plays a part in the daily press out of all proportion to its news value.

It is my contention that crime news occupies a justifiably important place in the newspaper of today, and that such objections are insufficiently grounded in fact. Crime news occupies about the same importance in the news as it does in the mind of the average reader. If it is stressed, that is the reason. People like to read crime news. They read it for the same reason large numbers of them attend criminal trials, go to fires, read mystery or adventure novels or go to the movies. It attracts interest because it usually is full of action or suggested action. It is dramatic, and has the further glamour of being true drama. It has been said that "morality does not make headlines," nor do newspaper readers expect it. The unusual makes headlines. If morality were unusual enough to make headlines, society would be in a sorry fix.

I will venture the assertion that no one ever was corrupted by a newspaper story. I will venture further to assert that anyone who could be corrupted by a newspaper story is not worth saving, and that any effort to save him must inevitably fail. Certainly nothing but a cracked brain could ever be inclined to crime, however copiously the news columns may spread the saga of the malefactor. There is a vast difference between finding crime stories interesting or entertaining and being incited to criminality by them. There may be criminals who treasure their press notices, but no intelligent person will argue that they committed their crimes in order to get their names in the paper.

On the other hand, there can be no denial that the printing, emphasizing, even the enthusiastic playing up, of crime news constitutes an attempt, though sometimes indirectly, to apply a needed lash to whip up indignation public opinion, to create public disgust for legal procedure as full of holes as a Swiss cheese, to incite popular demand for a cleaning up of conditions.

It has been said that crime news adds glamour to crime and awakens a desire to emulate the criminal. That is very much like saying that crime news adds glamour to getting shot in the back, for surely the methods employed in gangland warfare have been publicized enough to be familiar to everyone.

It is charged that the American press glorifies the American criminal. I cannot believe that anyone supposed Alphonse Capone would have been fined $50,000 and given the extraordinarily severe sentence of 11 years in the penitentiary for failure to pay income taxes, if he had not been "glorified" by the newspapers.

Criminal lawyers frequently object that daily it is becoming more difficult to free their clients because "the case has been tried in the newspapers before it ever gets to court." Who does not recall instances of attorneys for law-breakers insisting that their clients received sentences of undue severity when the arm of justice struck down with added weight because of "newspaper clamor"? It may be true that newspaper publicity assists but little in the apprehension of criminals, but it is as certainly true that many times "newspaper clamor" does assist in seeing to it that he is punished adequately when he is caught.

It is charged that crime news plays a part in the daily press out of all proportion to its news value. I insist that, since the annual crime bill is about the biggest bill the American people are compelled to pay, crime news is the biggest news in America. The Wickersham Committee's report insisted that $2,000,000 per day was a lamentably conservative estimate of the cost of crime in the United States. Anything which costs that much money is bound to be big news.

In addition to this, crime has increased in news value because this age has witnessed novelty in crime and criminal habit. Never before have we seen crime organized along the lines of war and sober business. It is news when criminals grow so efficient as to dominate whole cities. It is news when gang lords purchase palatial homes, hire butlers and social secretaries, don dress suits and try to crash into society. "Big shots" are not new to crime. We had Legs Diamond, Al Capone and Bugs Moran in the gang world of old. But they were content with vulgar pleasures, vulgar associates and vulgar environment. Lowbrow criminals with highbrow tastes are new.

I am not endeavoring to discuss the causes for the increase in crime in this article. I merely am contending that the publishing of crime news had nothing to do with it. Crime news is not a cause, it is an effect. Crime has increased in news importance as the menace of crime has increased in importance to society. The day does not pass when the newspaper does not throw a searchlight on these conditions. The newspaper deserves no rebuke for chronicling the effrontery of our criminals. The rebuke is deserved by an apathetic citizenship which complacently permits their brazenness to be flaunted in its face.

If the American public can read, day after day, of baby-killers, gang murderers, whole sale slaughters in broad daylight, and placidly accept these things as part of the established order, then the American people have lost their intestinal investment and there is no hope for the nation. Suppression or minimizing of the facts will not improve the situation. It would be criminal indeed for the newspapers of the land to conspire with other informative agencies to hide from the people the knowledge that a foreign enemy was approaching our shores. Yet the army of crime is promoting its active warfare within our borders. Is that of no particular interest to us? Has it much, or little, news value? Should we minimize that menace by playing it down?

Condolences From Boston

From the Boston Evening Transcript.

BOSTON extends sympathy to St. Louis and accompanies it with a message of good cheer. Mr. Cochran of Missouri, during a debate in the House of Representatives the other day, informed his colleagues that "four years ago this Congress authorized and appropriated $1,500,000 to purchase a site for the construction of a Federal building in St. Louis where the Government is paying $75,000 a year rent for offices in private buildings. A year later, the money to construct the buildings was voted. The contract for the construction of the foundation of that building has not yet been let." It may impress the people of St. Louis as a gloomy prospect, but let them cheer up.

All things come to those who wait. Here in Boston we know. Years ago, Bostonians read one day that money had been appropriated to tear down the old postoffice to make way for the new. Many in the days that followed were moved to visit the ancient pile and take a last look at it. But as months passed, their farewells became as numerous as the farewell tours of a popular actress. Yet the day came when the stout old walls yielded to the wreckers, and in place of the postoffice, there was a hole in the ground. All things come to those who wait.

Optimistic Yankees—St. Louis is informed that there are such persons—informed in the expectation that soon the walls of the new structure would rise, but again the weary months joined the yesterday. The hole in the ground became a jest. From the City Hall went forth mayoral cup concerning the pasturing of the municipal cow, to making mention of the Mayor's bull. Suggestions for the adornment of the hole in the ground were many. It might be transformed into a swimming pool or a sunken garden. But again there was evidence to support the old-time belief that all things come to those who wait.

The hole in the ground is no longer visible. Above it rises the steel frame of the new postoffice. Confidence increases that it will yet be clothed in granite. There is even a general expectation that the generation now living will see the building finished inside as well as outside.

FLIGHT OF THE VIRGIN ISLANDS.

From the Washington Public Ledger.

GOV. PEARSON of the Virgin Islands replied to a native demand for his removal by saying that the islanders' plight was not the fault of the United States and adding that they must help themselves before Congress would be willing to do so. He was in substance, echoing President Hoover's unfortunate statement that the United States, in acquiring the Virgin Islands, bought a peevishness. Not even his quotation from the Danish Parliamentary Commission's report of 1914, which stated that the islands were steadily declining, excuses or minimizes of the facts will not improve the situation. It would be criminal indeed for the newspapers of the land to conspire with other informative agencies to hide from the people the knowledge that a foreign enemy was approaching our shores. Yet the army of crime is promoting its active warfare within our borders. Is that of no particular interest to us? Has it much, or little, news value? Should we minimize that menace by playing it down?

It is charged that the American press glorifies the American criminal. I cannot believe that anyone supposed Alphonse Capone would have been fined $50,000 and given the extraordinarily severe sentence of 11 years in the penitentiary for failure to pay income taxes, if he had not been "glorified" by the newspapers.

MRS. CARAWAY WINS ELECTION IN LANDSLIDE

First Woman Ever Chosen for U. S. Senate by Popular Vote.

By the Associated Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, widow of Senator Thaddeus H. Caraway, yesterday defeated two independent candidates in a special election for the United States senatorship. She will fill out her husband's unexpired term.

Returns from more than two-thirds of the counties gave her 47,121 votes, against 436 for Sam Carson, self-styled "dirt farmer," and 925 for Rex R. Floyd, son of a former Congressman.

Mrs. Caraway made no campaign. She remained in Washington serving in the Senate under a temporary appointment from Gov. Parnell, while women's clubs and democratic leaders worked in her behalf.

The vote was small because of rain that fell over the state throughout the day and the fact that Mrs. Caraway's election was regarded as certain. Her nomination by the Democratic State Central Committee was equivalent to election.

Women served without pay as election officials in almost all counties because depleted finances threatened otherwise to prevent an election. A few counties held no election despite offers of women to volunteer their services.

Mrs. Caraway will serve until March, 1933. Her friends expect she will then retire from politics. She is the first woman ever elected to the United States Senate.

S. BROWN LEAVES BULK OF ESTATE TO FAMILY

In Will Be Worth $4000 to Charles and $7000 to Business Associates.

The will of Charles S. Brown, filed yesterday in Probate Court at Clayton, leaves the bulk of his estate, the amount of which is not estimated, to members of the family and bequeaths $4000 to Charles and $7000 to employees and business associates. Mr. Brown, who was one of the founders of the Brown & Hall Woodworking Machine Co., died a week ago at his home, Brown Oaks, in Huntleigh Village.

The will leaves $1000 each to the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children, Masonic Orphans' Home and Union Methodist Episcopal Church. The Methodist Sunday School at Brown's Mills, N. J., a birthplace, receives $500 and the Methodist Sunday School at Polkville, N. J., an equal amount. It will state that bequests to charity are few because his wife is familiar with his purposes and will attend to them either during her life or in her will.

Two-thirds of his stock in a machine company is left to his daughter, Mrs. C. F. Pringle. The remainder is left to his widow, Mrs. Brown, the rest to be divided equally between his widow and daughter. Mrs. C. F. Pringle's residence is left to his widow and the provision that the son may require it after her death by paying $25,000 to his sister.

HEAD OF AMERICAN LEGION GUEST AT BREAKFAST HERE

Henry L. Stevens Jr. on Way to Service Officers' Meeting in Sedalia.

Henry L. Stevens Jr., Warsaw, S. C., who served as a 22-year-old Second Lieutenant in a machine gun battalion during the World War and is now National Commander of the American Legion, was entertained at breakfast at Hotel Carondelet today by 25 St. Louis Legionnaires.

The party left immediately afterward for Sedalia to attend a meeting of Legion service officers which will take up the 1932 program relating to unemployment, service to disabled and protection and aid for widows and orphans of former service men.

Commander Stevens, now 35, youngest leader the Legion has had, has just completed a tour of posts in the North and Midwest. He has found unemployment to be the chief immediate problem facing his organization.

Scipione Guidi, concert master, will direct the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra at the Orpheum tomorrow afternoon in the third of its series of student concerts. The music was selected with special reference to the oboe, English-horn and bassoon, and Guidi will explain their place in the orchestra. The program:

Overture to The Secret of Suzanne, Wolf-Ferrari; Funeral March of a Marionette, Debussy; Bacchanale, from Samson and Delilah, Saint-Saens; In the Mountain Village, Tchaikoff; Ivanoff, Dance of the Nymphs and Satyr, from The Sorcerer's Apprentice, Dukas.

MANY CHURCHES WON'T TAKE PART IN CAMPAIGN

Several Larger Ones in Group Refusing to Participate in Evangelism Survey.

A substantial number of churches in St. Louis and St. Louis County, among them several of the larger ones, have declined to participate in the "Kernahan Directed Survey and Visitation Evangelism Campaign," for which, it is understood, the 125 participating churches will pay about $8000 to the Rev. Dr. A. Earl Kernahan of Washington. The purpose is to obtain new members.

That a lack of 100 per cent cooperation by churches of cities where he "modernizes the sawdust trail" has been anticipated by Dr. Kernahan, and will not check his campaign, is evident from a textbook written by him for his workers. The book says: "If there are some churches which cannot be enrolled, leaders should not be discouraged. There are still some churches so involved in a case of individualism that they live unto themselves."

Among the larger churches declining to participate are Pilgrim Congregational Church, Union boulevard and Kensington avenue, and Grace Methodist Episcopal Church, Skinner boulevard and Waterman avenue.

No Criticism by Dr. Crowther.

The Rev. Dr. Jay T. Stocking, pastor, would not discuss the reasons of Pilgrim Church for not joining the campaign. The Rev. Dr. James E. Crowther, pastor of Grace Church, who was in Seattle, Wash., when a similar campaign was conducted there in 1929, said he had no criticism to offer, but that conditions within his church and its own program made it inadvisable to participate.

"I have my way of doing things," he said, "and the campaigners have their way. Insofar as they do good their campaign is good. Any question I may have in mind as to their plan is a purely personal one and I may be mistaken."

The campaign was designed for Protestant Evangelical churches, but does not include Lutheran or Protestant Episcopal churches.

Dr. Kernahan's assistant, the Rev. C. O. Morong of Washington, is in St. Louis preparing for the two-week directed survey which will begin Sunday. Tomorrow about 20,000 questionnaires will be distributed to participating churches. Workers recruited from these churches will fill out the questionnaires in a house-to-house canvass, asking to what church each member of the family belongs, or if he is not affiliated with any church, what denomination is preferred.

From Jan. 31 to Feb. 12 the pastors and members of participating churches will call on families according to their expressed church preferences. Care is being taken to avoid duplication of effort, pressing no preference will be given to the church nearest the family's home.

Dr. Kernahan to Make Addresses.

During the two weeks of visitation evangelism, Dr. Kernahan will be in St. Louis to make a series of public addresses. Dr. Kernahan's campaign literature says he has spoken before more civic luncheon clubs than any man in America. The literature states that the "evangelism" plan has "won 254,902 persons to Christian decisions and church membership in 80 months" in campaigns throughout the country.

While the exact cost of the local campaign has not been learned, the Rev. C. Oscar Johnson, pastor of Third Baptist Church and acting chairman of the local campaign, quoted Dr. Kernahan as guaranteeing not to "take one cent over $10,000 out of St. Louis."

Participating churches will contribute to the campaign in amounts proportionate to membership. The largest contribution, the Rev. Dr. Johnson said, will be $400. The funds will go to Dr. Kernahan and his preparatory workers, field directors, survey directors and survey office directors and for expenses.

The Rev. Dr. A. H. Armstrong, executive secretary of the Metropolitan Church Federation of St. Louis, is general secretary of the local campaign.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS

... is the perfect place for your winter vacation

Sea surrounds it. A tropic sun warms it. Gulf breezes fan it. Isn't this an ideal setting for a winter playground? Palms are everywhere. You can rest beneath them and draw vigor from the curative air that sweeps, tang-laden, from the sea.

North, south, east, west of the island are game fish—fifty-one varieties. Here are thrills afloat... cruising, sailing, fly golf on shore! Drive down an emerald fairway skimming the gulf! Motor on a golden beach. Canoe merrily. Sport is keen in this mild, invigorating atmosphere.

Romance gathers on Treasure Isle where LaFite, the buccannier, hid his pieces-of-eight more than a century back. The seaport yields adventure; ships come from afar bearing strange cargoes. Galveston has a glamour all its own, an endless charm. You'll find nothing like it so near where you go. It is a city of oleanders and other flowers, of quaint shutters, of health and contentment where winter never tarries. The playground of the Southwest invites you.

REAL LIVING...

Smart accommodations fronting the Gulf of Mexico. Luxury and refinement at Southern hospitality. Marvelous cooking.

... INEXPENSIVELY

VISITING IN TORONTO

—Ashen-Brenner Photo.

MISS HOPE VERNON PANGMAN, DAUGHTER OF Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carlisle Pangman, 4654 Eashing avenue, who is spending several weeks visiting relatives in Toronto, Canada. She will return home in a week or ten days.

Members and guests of the Town Club heard Dr. Karl A. Menninger of Topeka, Kan., speak on "Psychopathology in the Daily Newspaper," in the club's lounge last night.

The talk was not a comprehensive discussion of newspaper contents, or of the policies and problems of newspaper making. Dr. Menninger, a psychiatrist, author of a book on "The Human Mind," took a number of items, clipped directly from newspapers, or epitomized by periodicals. He talked of the phases of human behavior which the items exhibited, and of the way in which news and headline writers had viewed them. The discourse was speculative and tentative, with no indication of actual research into any of the cases cited.

Dr. Menninger touched, but did not develop in detail, the question of the effect of crime news on the reader. He held that factual reports of crimes do more good than harm, and that some readers, who may have a tendency to hostility against society, find "release" for this hostility in reading of crimes committed by others, hence may be less inclined to such acts themselves.

Facts Viewed Objectively.

"The psychiatrist and the journalist alike," he said, "must look at facts objectively and without introducing their own emotions. Both must be utterly factual."

To the psychiatrist, he said, some news items point to mental sickness in the person concerned, and actions are nothing to be funny about, though the writer of the item, or more frequently the headline, may yield to the temptation to Tiffnancy. He cited accounts of theft of odd objects, one item telling of a "collector" of manholes covers who rendered the streets unsightly by pursuing his hobby.

Medically, Dr. Menninger reminded his audience, there is no such thing as insanity. Insanity is a legal expression, and its existence is determined by legal proceedings. He proceeded to discuss acts of violence, childishness and sadism, some shown in news items and some cited from his book. Under the head of sadism he placed some acts of policemen in handling prisoners, saying it was of the utmost importance that such cases be honestly reported, and that they afford the psychiatrist a study into the origins of cruel impulses.

He defined sadism as a mixture of hate and misdirected sex instinct. Persons inclined to acts of cruelty, he said, may be exhibiting the result of earlier cruelty applied to themselves. Similarly, childish acts, like that of a man who went to bed and stayed several years to spite his family, may be due to incidents and representations of the person's own childhood.

Sadistic Appeal in Comics.

Newspaper comics, he observed, make their appeal in many cases through violence and even sadism. He did not think they were necessarily harmful to children, as their effect was not to suggest violence, so much as to give vicarious gratification to instincts of violence. Here, as in other parts of the talk, no application of research, and no scientific development of detail, were apparent.

FINDS NEWS IS GUIDE TO HUMAN BEHAVIOR

Dr. Karl A. Menninger Tells How Psychiatrist Views His Paper.

"I CARRIED the makin's for years. Got so I could roll 'em single-handed. But there's no real economy in it."

"The way I figure is this: A fellow don't spend so much on himself but what he can afford to enjoy the best in smokes."

"Myself... I smoke Chesterfields. They cured me of rollin' my own. First off, you get better tobacco."

"I'm not knockin' the makin's... but it stands to reason Chesterfields wouldn't be where they are today if they didn't give you the finest tobacco. I like their aroma."

"Plenty of Turkish in Chesterfields... and you don't get that in the makin's."

And there must be something about the blend, too... you can't get a milder, better taste... not anywhere!

"Got a right good opinion of myself, but I don't figure I'm as clever as those cigarette-making machines. Every single Chesterfield is round and filled right... beats anything you can roll yourself. Besides, it smokes cooler and lasts longer. I've tried both, so I know."

Nothing amateurish about Chesterfield's Radio Program, either! Nat Shilkret's Orchestra and Alex Gray, popular soloist, entertain you every night, except Sunday, at 10:30 Eastern Standard Time, on the Columbia Coast-to-Coast Network.

RUSSIAN AUTOMOBILE EXPERIMENT GETS UNDER WAY

CLUB HOUSE IN THE TREES

Second largest motor plant in the world has just been finished at Nizhni Novgorod, but sufficient skilled workers are still lacking. Above photograph shows class of beginners getting their first instruction in a course of training which was in progress while buildings were going up. If sufficient help can be provided, about 120,000 cars and trucks will be constructed this year.

Peasant girls were trained to do light work in the machine works of the Nizhni Novgorod automobile plant.

Eight boys of Ferguson, Mo., have just finished work on this lofty retreat—constructed from odds and ends of lumber. Inside are a stove, oil lamp, and chairs.

WAITING FOR FLOOD WATERS TO SUBSIDE

American engineers did most of the planning of the construction work at Nizhni Novgorod and they had a little colony of homes all by themselves, some of which are shown in the above photograph.

Refugees in the town of Webb, Miss., who had been driven from their homes in the lowlands, where the flood often reached to the roofs of buildings, watching flow of water through city streets.

BEHOLD THE FIRST OF THE SPRING HATS

Milliners in the East have already decided what will be offered for wear in warmer weather and most of them make use of massed flowers—often of velvet, as in the model shown above.

Charles Paddock, George Simpson and Hector Dyer, photographed at Los Angeles, where they are getting ready for the Olympic tryouts.

In 1899 these nine men, eight of them St. Louisans, went with the Third U. S. Cavalry to quell an insurrection in the new Asiatic possessions of the United States. They recently had an informal gathering at the country home of Theodore P. Lange to meet the ninth man, Charles A. Hill of San Diego, Cal. Those in the picture are, left to right, John Fisher, Charles McConnell, Frank Kalina, Charles Kelley, Charles Bowen, Ben Mantler, Ben Kuens, Gus Maschlin, all of St. Louis, and Charles A. The hair care experts L'Oréal's new hair care products are the answer to the hair problems that so many women face. They're the only products that work on the hair at the source, the scalp. They're the only products that can help you get the hair you want. They're the only products that can help you get the hair you need.

When lazy glands won't open, the hair is starved and faded. When lazy glands don't close, scalp itches.

If the tiny glands in your scalp have fallen asleep—look out! The consequences won't end with just dandruff! It may take a year or more for the abnormal condition to reach the surface.

Scaly scabs that make you turn your eyes away, began with "just fingers. Dip them in Danderin—to eat through and penetrate to the pores—and do this daily. One treatment will loosen and dissolve the dandruff. One week will make your scalp seem as clean and wholesome as a little girl's. The second week will give you a vastly improved scalp. That is when your hair be-

The next common sign of gland trouble is when the color of one's hair begins to fade, or becomes streaked.

There is only one thing that often helps heads in this state of stagnation; you must stimulate the tiny glands that feed the hair and give it color. Massages will help. Use the stamp: "live and begin to thrive!" Remember it's a message that helps. And it's Danderine that gets through to the glands. Just rubbing something on the head won't stimulate lazy glands! Get a bottle of Danderine today, start your treatments tonight, and see what happens when those lazy glands come to life! Your druggist has it.

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of bronchitis, whooping cough, and all other coughs due to colds, giving prompt relief, is astonishing.

24 ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a bottle, and fill up with plain gran-

It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be with-

It is surprising how quickly the lozenges loosen the germ-laden phlegm, and soothe and heal the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off

HOOVER CANDIDACY FOR RENOMINATION IS ANNOUNCED BY CABINET MEMBERS

Statement Is Made by Postmaster-General Brown Who Is Likely to Head the Republican National Committee.

PLAN UNDER WAY TO GET DELEGATES

Local Conditions Will Met in Each State by President's Friends—Not Certain About North Dakota Primary.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 14.—Postmaster-General Brown today announced that President Hoover was a candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket.

The Postmaster-General, who has been in the political circles, is considered most likely successor to Sen. Fessenden as chairman of the Republican National Committee, said local conditions would be met in each state as to methods of securing the President's name in races for delegates.

"The only way President Hoover can be renominated," he said, "is to get delegates to the convention. There are about 20 or 30 different methods by which these delegates are selected, and the President's friends will conform to these methods in the different states."

He said no decision had been reached as to whether Mr. Hoover's name would be entered in the North Dakota primary on March 15.

"No decision will be reached on these matters until the time comes for action," he said. "When the time comes, prompt action will be taken."

The Postmaster-General later in the day said that President Hoover himself probably would make his first announcement of his candidacy in writing to the voters of the State of Ohio giving consent to his name going on the ballot some time before March 15.

JOSEPHUS DANIELS INJURED IN ATLANTA AUTO WRECK

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 14.—Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, is in a hospital here with a fractured wrist, a fractured leg and a fractured arm, as a result of an auto accident yesterday.

Daniels, publisher of the (N. C.) News and Observer, was returning from a celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Berry School for the Blind, when his car was struck by a truck and overturned.

The driver of the other car, a Negro woman, A. P. helped Daniels and Alston to the other car and they were taken to St. Joseph's Infirmary. The doctor who examined Daniels said his injuries were not serious.

BAR OBJECTS TO RADIO TRIALS

To Discipline Any Judge Who Broadcasts.
By the Associated Press.
CHARLESTON, S. C., Jan. 14.—The Executive Committee of the American Bar Association today voted to recommend to the national ethics committee a resolution to discipline any judge who broadcasts a trial over which he presides.

The Subcommittee on Professional Ethics was directed to recommend means of stopping the practice of news photographers taking pictures of the principals while the trials are in progress.

STOKES WANTS ALIMONY

Tells Reno Court That He Has Reduced His Income.
By the Associated Press.
RENO, Nev., Jan. 14.—A motion for a reduction in alimony was filed in district court here today by W. E. D. Stokes, husband of the late Mrs. Stokes. Stokes' action did not prevent a reduction in alimony, but pointed out that the defendant had reduced his income. Hearing of the motion was set for Feb. 8. The pair were married here in 1930. Mrs. Stokes is in an Illinois sanitarium under guardianship of her mother.

YEAH, AND MAYBE SHE AUNT LISTENING, BUT SNEAKIN' A FEW LOOKS AT YOU UP HERE INSTEAD!

WHY SHOULD SHE LOOK AT ME—I'M NOT RICH! I HAVEN'T ANY MONEY! THE POCKETS IN MY PANTS HAVE LIVED IN VAN! I'M GOING TO WRITE TO ELLA AND TELL HER I—

SAY, NO, DON'T NEVER WRITE TO A WOMAN WHAT YOU CAN SAY TO HER FACE! I MADE THAT MISTAKE ONCE! I THOUGHT I WAS IN LOVE WITH ANGELINE AND I WAS FOOLISH ENOUGH TO WRITE IT ON A TREE—OSCAR LOVES ANGELINE!

THEN MY LOVE TURNED COLDER THAN A BISQUE TORTONI AND I GAVE HER THE GATE! SIX WEEKS LATER I WAS HAILED INTO COURT FOR BREACH OF PROMISE AND A LONG FIGHT—OR A HAPPY WEDDING AND A SHORT COURT AS EVIDENCE!

HASN'T AUNT SAULY ARRIVED?

NO SHE IS COMING BY WATER WITH THE GOLD FISH BUT HER DOG CAME TO DAY.

WHERE IS HER DOG?

HE'S LYING DOWN, THE TRIP TIRED HIM VERY MUCH.

BE QUIET! HE'S TAKIN' A NAP.

ISN'T HE CUTE?

CAN YOU BEAT IT!

Mutt and Jeff—By Bud Fisher (Copyright, 1932.)

LOOKS LIKE THE BELATED ROMANCE OF MRS. MUTT'S TWIN SISTER IS GOING TO BE POSTPONED A LITTLE LONGER.

JEFF, CALL UP MY WIFE AND TELL HER EVERYTHING IS OFF—DON'T LET ANY WOMAN BULLDOZE YOU!

I'LL DO IT—MUTT!

MRS. MUTT, I AM NOT GOING TO MARRY YOUR SISTER—ALTA-MANDA—OUCH! WHAT'S THAT?

WHAT DID SHE SAY?

SHE SAID WHAT ABOUT THAT LOVE LETTER I SENT TO HER SISTER. WHY, MUTT, I NEVER SENT HER ANY LOVE LETTER—

OH, THAT'S THE ONE MY WIFE WROTE FOR YOU!

THAT LOOKS BAD—WE HAVE OUR CHOICE OF TWO CONTESTS—WE CAN TAKE A BREAK OF PROMISE AND A LONG FIGHT—OR A HAPPY WEDDING AND A SHORT FIGHT.

MOTHER DARLING... ISN'T THIS A GORGEOUS WRAP?!

YES, BUT—

I KNOW WHAT YOU ARE GOING TO SAY—I HAVEN'T RECEIVED UNCLE ABNER'S MILLIONS YET—SO WHY RUN INTO DEBT?!

IF ANYTHING HAPPENED THAT YOU DIDN'T GET THE MILLION—

THE STORES SIMPLY INSISTED I OPEN CHARGE ACCOUNTS... IF I GET THE $1,000,000 I'LL PAY MY BILLS... IF I DON'T GET THE $1,000,000 I'LL DIE FROM THE SHOCK!
